Lyme Disease Is "Common" Here; Doctors Advise Caution, Not Panic

Lyme disease is common in Princeton, reports Dr. Leroy Hunninghake, a Princeton rheumatologist — so common, in fact, that he is certain many physicians are not reporting cases to the Health Department. (The facts bear him out. Three cases were reported to the Princeton Regional Health Department last year; two have been reported so far this year).

Dr. Hunninghake said that every doctor in offices adjacent to his has seen Lyme Disease. "We get three to five calls a week in our office alone, and there were two cases on a recent Friday."

Princeton pediatrician Mark Levin uses the same word, "common," to describe Lyme disease in Princeton. He said that, among his group of seven pediatricians, about four or five blood tests for the disease are sent out each week. The group, he said, is definitely seeing more cases than it did last year.

While 217 confirmed cases of the disease were reported in the State of New Jersey in 1985, and 325 in 1987, the State Health Department says the number of cases probably exceeds 1500 annually. A survey of physicians done by the Hopewell Valley Department of Health determined there were 82 cases in Hopewell in 1986.

Like others in the health fields, Dr. Hunninghake wants people to be aware of the problem, but not be alarmed by it. "Lyme disease is preventable, and there is treatment to prevent complications," he says.

Dr. Patrick Moore of the Federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta pointed out that the vast majority of people who get Lyme Disease do not become seriously ill. "In most people," he said, "it is a self-limited disease that goes away without treatment."

Lyme disease, first identified in Lyme, Conn., in 1975, is a bacterial infection that is transmitted by a tiny tick harbored primarily by white-tailed

Art Museum Reopening Now Set for December

The Princeton University Art Museum — closed for renovation and expansion since February, 1986 — will begin a phased reopening in December. The entrance gallery, with a collection of 18th- and 19th-century American art, will be the first to open. Other galleries are scheduled to open in February and March, 1989, with the dedication planned for early May.

The new wing, designed by Mitchell/Giurgula, Philadelphia, is now completed

One Objection Filed, More Expected In Settlement of Mount Laurel Suit

One objector to the Township and Planning Board's position in the Mount Laurel litigation hearing has already filed notice and several others are expected to do so before the deadline Friday.

The hearing in Judge Eugene D. Serpentelli's courtroom in the Ocean County Courthouse has been postponed to Tuesday, August 9, at 9:30 a.m. Objectors have until Friday to file written notice of their objection — along with copies of supporting affidavits, reports and other documents — with Judge Serpentelli. Copies should also be filed with the Ocean County Clerk, the attorneys representing the Township, the Planning Board and Calton Homes, and with Philip Caton, the court-appointed master whose report on the Township's affordable housing program is expected to be an important piece of testimony.

The objection filed by Lowell F. Curran Jr. of 23 Braeburn Drive, an attorney with an office at 419 North Harrison Street, was the only one received as of last Monday night, according to Ronald Reisner, the attorney representing the Township in the Mt. Laurel case. Mr. Reisner came to Township Committee last Monday night to speak in general terms in open session about Mr. Caton's report, and to brief his client in closed session well past midnight on strategy for the forthcoming hearing.

Two Princetons Will Cooperate On Plan for New Playing Fields

The Borough and Township have agreed to hire a consultant to develop and prepare a plan that would ultimately lead to more active recreation areas and playing fields in Princeton. The municipalities will share the $25,000 consultant fee on the basis of two-thirds for the Township and one-third for the Borough. The consultant will be hired by — and will work with — Donald Barr, longtime director of the Joint Recreation Department.

The study was originally broached at the joint budget meetings held earlier this year. However, the Borough balked at the $45,000 price tag attached to it. Both the scope of the survey, and its price tag, have been whittled since in negotiations between the Borough and Township. Mayor Barbara Sigmund said that Borough Council will be given an upset figure of $25,000 for the work — "more than that and we get upset," she added with a smile.

The consultant will study the most imminent need for fields for team sports. In addition to the currently undeveloped Van Dyke-Wight side (33.5 acres on Snowden and Van Dyke) and portions of the Princeton Sewer Operating Committee (PSOC) plant and landfill (120 acres off River Road), the consultant will be asked to evaluate Community Park, Grover Park (at the shopping center), and Hilltop Park (at Bunn Drive.).

The question the towns hope to have answered is, "How do we get more fields, more space? How do we expand our active sports program in Princeton?" Mr. Barr said that there is not enough space for all the activities that are going on. "At Community Park, there is Little League three nights a weeek and men's softball two nights a week," he said. "Soccer has had to go to Washington Road. If Princeton University has other needs for these fields, there will be a desperate need for an additional field."

Mr. Barr said the town currently has ten ballfields, counting those at Community Park, which are under the jurisdiction of the Recreation Department; those in other parks; and those belonging to Princeton Regional Schools. He would like to see four additional fields constructed.

Mayor Sigmund said the study will determine whether and how the PSOC lands can

Lyme Disease

deer and white-footed field mice.

The disease, which can develop into a severe, life-threatening illness, might be viewed with the same caution as strep throat. While most people with a streptococcal throat infection recover without treatment, a few develop rheumatic heart disease if the infection is not initially and adequately controlled by antiobiotics.

While it is a good idea to inspect children for ticks after they have been outdoors, Dr. Hunninghake cautions parents not to act fanatically and scare the youngsters. He suggests that they be checked all over, and their hair gone through "with a fine-toothed comb."

Parents should check especially around the groin, hairline and scalp, under the arms, around the navel, and behind and in the ears.

The tick that transmits Lyme disease is only the size of a pepper grain, and it usually falls out within several hours. But Dr. Hunninghake believes it can be discovered. "You may feel something crawling or irritating," he says, "or you can see it."

Treatment with Antibiotics. Lyme disease can usually be cured by antibiotics. Persons noticing a circular rash or any symptoms that resemble those of Lyme disease, and having reason to think they may have been exposed to a tick bite, should call their physician. All cases should be treated promptly and aggressively to prevent development of a severe, debilitating illness.

The characteristic symptom of Lyme disease — which can occur three to 32 days after the bite — is a red, target-shaped, ring-like spot with a central clearing that expands and is hot to the touch. Some individuals will develop many of these spots, forming a rash even on areas of the body that were not bitten by the tick. The rash will gradually disappear on its own, although disease is still present.

Only half the adults who have been bitten by an infected tick will develop the rash. However, 90 to 95 percent of children will — thus making the disease easier to identify and treat. Children will also develop the rash in a shorter time frame, from three days to two weeks.

The rash may be followed soon after by flu-like symptoms, such as fatigue, chills, fever, sore throat and aches.

Weeks to months later, pain moving from joint to joint may occur, along with such neurological problems as paralysis of a facial nerve, visual disturbances, or emotional or memory problems. Heart problems are also possible.

Months, or even years later, persons may suffer crippling arthritic pain in one or more joints, often the knees. Severe neurological symptoms, mimicking those of multiple sclerosis, may occur.

Advises Waiting. Dr. Levin says that parents should not do anything after a tick bite — besides cleansing the area — unless the rash or other symptoms occur. They should then contact their physician right away. "We don't do anything until there are signs of disease in children," he says. "Otherwise we will be drawing blood and dispensing penicillin to half the town."

He adds that these ticks are common, and pointed to a study in Westchester County that showed that there was one deer tick for every square foot of lawn — and these were manicured lawns.

As a pediatrician, and a father, Dr. Levin is well aware how difficult it is to restrict children, so he focuses on the prevention of tick bites. He suggests persons planning to spend time in the woods should wear lightweight clothes with long sleeves and pants, and should tuck the bottoms of their pants legs into socks or boots. Mosquito repellent, such as "Off", is also helpful.

Adults, according to Dr. Hunninghake, might chose a different route. "If someone is bitten by a tick and feels that he or she doesn't want even the possibility of Lyme disease, antibiotics can be given," he said. "The second option is to wait and see if the rash or systemic symptoms develop. Then, if nothing happens, a blood test can be taken four to six weeks later to see if antibodies are elevated."

Dr. Levin's group has seen several more-advanced cases of Lyme disease among their patients. One child developed arthritis and another had central nervous system involvement. "But all got better with treatment," he said. "There were no chronic conditions."

Dr. Hunninghake is concerned about the possibility that mosquitoes and other organisms might carry Lyme disease, thus spreading it more rapidly through the population. Also, looking back, he feels that some people in the past who were treated for juvenile or other arthritis might have had Lyme disease, but no one knew about it.

In pregnancy, Lyme disease has been associated with an increased likelihood of complications, some serious. These include rash, prematurity, blindness, and fetal death.

A Factor in Central N.J.: Lyme disease, reported in 32 states and on all other continents except Antarctica, is now the most common tick-transmitted illness in the United States. In New Jersey, it is commonly diagnosed from Somerset County down to Cape May. Although all age groups are at risk, 27 percent of cases occur in children age 9 and under.
common among males than females.

While the white-tailed deer and white-footed mouse are the tick's primary hosts, rabbits and birds occasionally harbor a few. Domestic animals are rarely carriers, although they may become infected with the disease. To help ward off ticks, pets should wear flea and tick collars.

Although the incidence of Lyme disease in Princeton is growing, it is important to remember that it is usually a mild illness that only sometimes causes severe disability.

"We want people to take precautions to prevent tick bites and to seek medical attention promptly if they develop suspicious symptoms," said Dr. Moore of the Center for Disease Control. "But we don't want people to become so overly concerned that they stay indoors or confined to their decks all summer."

Terhune Road Residents Argue for 25 mph Limit

Residents of Terhune Road came to Township Committee last Monday to ask for a reduction in the speed limit to 25 miles per hour. They also asked for greater police monitoring and speed limit enforcement, as well as signs calling attention to the presence of children.

The present speed limit is 30 mph on the section from Route 206 to Harrison Street and 35 mph from Harrison to Snowden Lane. However, changing a posted speed limit is not a simple matter of changing the signs, as was demonstrated during the hour and a half discussion Monday night.

As Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer explains, there are two routes a municipality can take to set a speed limit. One is to ask the New Jersey Department of Transportation to conduct a survey and include its recommendations in the municipal ordinances. If a municipality wants to set a speed limit other than what the DOT recommends, it must get the municipal engineer to conduct a survey and use his recommendation as the basis of the ordinance. The engineer must "certify" that his recommendation is "in the best interest of safety and the expedition of traffic."

The other way is not to ordinance the speed limit and let Title 39 of the New Jersey statutes take over. Title 39 allows a speed limit of 25 mph in areas that qualify as "residential" by DOT criteria and 50 mph in all other areas.

Enforcement Problems. The problem for a municipality in not ordinancing a speed limit is enforcement. Someone ticketed for speeding can ask to see the ordinance establishing the speed limit in the zone in which he or she was picked up. Without an ordinance, the burden of proof is on the municipality to present testimony from the engineer and a police officer when the case is heard in municipal court as to why that section is posted at the particular speed limit.

Several years ago, at the request of the Township magistrate and the Police Department, the DOT was asked to survey all Township roads and streets and make recommendations as to the appropriate speed limits. Ordinances were then adopted to include roads which had not previously been included, all in the interest of better enforcement.

Although there have been previous requests from Terhune Road residents to reduce the speed limit to 25 mph, the DOT, in the words of Mr. Schmierer, "still believes" that 35 mph is the appropriate speed limit for the section from Harrison Street to Snowden Lane. Thus when residents asked again that the speed limit be reduced to 25 mph, the mayor asked the engineer, Robert V. Kiser, to make an investigation.

In his report, Mr. Kiser notes that the condition as well as the geometrics of the roadway meet or exceed the design criteria for the present 35 mph. Although there have been eight accidents in the past six years, three were deer-related.

Residentiat in Part. Mr. Kiser points out that the section of Terhune between Thanet and Randall roads is residential in character, with houses on both sides of the street. However, he characterizes the rest of the road as more rural in character.

Radar speed checks conducted by the Police Department during peak hours of two weekday mornings in late June and late July show an average speed of 36.8 mph eastbound and 35.6 westbound. A several point drop in speeds between the late June date and the late July date was attributed by Township Police Sgt. Anthony Gaylord to greater police enforcement following the residents' request for a lowering of the speed limit.

Mr. Kiser also projects the 85 percentile speed, the speed limit which 85 percent of drivers are likely to obey, at 31.2 mph eastbound and 30.2 mph westbound. He lists other Township roads currently posted at 35 mph which have characteristics and function similar to Terhune Road. They are Mt. Lucas Road, Snowden Lane, Stuart Road, the upper portion of Herrontown Road and the northern portion of Cherry Hill Road.

Based on these findings, Mr. Kiser recommended reducing the posted speed limit on the section between Harrison Street and Randall Road from 35 mph to 30 mph. But he said the speed limit should remain at 35 mph on the section from Randall Road to Snowden Lane. This, of course, conflicts with the residents' wishes.

We're the Tops

Ozone air pollution in New Jersey so far this summer is the worst ever recorded in the State, with the highest readings appearing along the Route 1 corridor, from Trenton north.

New Jerseyans have been exposed to more than 25 days of unhealthful levels of ozone this summer. This is 70 percent more often than at this point during a normal summer, said Environmental Protection Commissioner Richard Dewling.

The lung reacts to ozone initially with protective measures such as coughing, pain upon deep inspiration, shortness of breath, rapid shallow breathing, and sometimes narrowing of the airways. Although the damage caused by one exposure is usually reversible within about three days, more research is needed concerning repeated exposures.

Any ozone reading above 0.12 parts per million is considered unhealthful. Levels along the Princeton corridor of Route 1 have regularly exceeded 0.20 parts per million. Health and environmental officials caution that strenuous exercise and prolonged outdoor activity be avoided when ozone exceeds the 0.12 ppm standard, especially for children and those with existing lung ailments.

James Barnshaw, 422 Terhune Road, told Committee that the speed limit was of great concern to the residents, and that the measurements in the speed checks "do not jibe with reality." He said that lack of monitoring on Terhune "will lead to high rates of speed — more people going 45 to 50 than we'd like." Dr. Barnshaw also pointed out the changing conditions on Terhune — the new office buildings already built, the 65 townhouses about to be built, and the Princeton Medical Group's take-over of the Opinion Research office building.

Karen Gordon of 177 Terhune Road, who brought her young child with her to the meeting, also supported a reduction to 25 mph. She said she had personally observed much higher speeds both day and night, and asked, based on seeing New York express buses, whether Terhune had been designated for commercial traffic.

A Loop Road Once. She was told that in recent master plans, Terhune was designated as a loop road, but that resident objections had gradually removed certain sections. Citing the increase in families with young children, she asked that the speed limit be reduced as a way to "modify people's behavior."

Robert Hosford, 430 Terhune Road, also spoke of the changing nature of the neighborhood and asked Committee "to stand up" to the DOT. "Where is home rule?" Mr. Hosford wanted to know. "Children's lives are more important than the DOT."

After prolonged discussion, Committee voted to delete Terhune Road from the ordinance under discussion so that a reduction in the speed limit on Grover Avenue to 25 mph could be implemented. This was a substantive change and thus involved re-introducing the ordinance, with another public hearing on Monday, August 8. Meanwhile, Mr. Kiser was asked to take another look at the situation in the light of information from the residents to see if a uniform speed could be recommended for the length of Terhune.

HEART AGENCY SAYS THANKS: Elizabeth Doyle (left) of the Mercer County Chapter of the American Heart Association presents plaques to Anne Knudson-Fitzpatrick, president, (center) and Lorrie Janick, executive director, of the Princeton Fitness Center in appreciation of the firm's sponsorship of its 5th annual ExerDance which helped raise money for AHA research.

Another issue that arose was school children having to cross Terhune, probably at Meadowbrook Drive, to walk to Littlebrook School when that elementary school re-opens in September. Mayor Litvack said a full discussion on walking vs. hazardous route bussing, and the need for school crossing guards, would be aired on August 8.

Other Business. In other business, Committee agreed to forward the nomination of the Lake Carnegie District for the State and federal registers of historic sites. Eugene McPartland, Princeton University vice president for facilities, told Committee the University "harbors great concern" that the process for obtaining federal permits for dam repair and future dredging of the crew course could become a "much more tortuous process" if the lake were accepted on the national register.

There was discussion, too, about including the Lake Carnegie District and its related structures on the list of districts governed by the Township's historic preservation ordinance. The University would prefer that the Township went on record as not including the lake, rather than remaining silent on the subject. Mayor Litvack asked Committeewoman Carol Wojciechowicz to review the subject with the Historic Preservation Commission.

The mandatory clustering ordinance was introduced, and will have a public hearing on Monday, August 15. The proposed ordinance lists eight sites — largely undeveloped properties that have historic or environmental significance — on which clustering of residential units would be required. The ordinance is accompanied by a map which outlines those areas of each of the eight tracts where development would be prohibited.

Six-Month Ban Approved While Standards Are Set

The Planning Board has approved proposed Borough and Township ordinances which would ban development applications for six months while standards for water flow and pressure for new developments are drawn up.

Under State land use law, ordinances involving land use must be reviewed by the Planning Board after introduction by the governing body. They are then referred back to the municipality for public hearing and final adoption. The Borough was expected to adopt the measure at its Council meeting on Tuesday as TOWN TOPICS went to press, while the Township is scheduled to hold its public hearing on the measure this Monday.

The partial ban, as it is being called, was triggered by the drop in water pressure and flow in certain areas of the community in late June and early July. The ordinances place a ban on filing new development applications with the Planning Board or Zoning Board for a maximum of six months. They exempt those that do not require additional use of public water.

A request to the Zoning Board for a variance to permit the construction of a deck that will infringe on the side yard setback is an example of the type of application that will be exempt. Applying for a builder's permit to build a single-family home which meets all zoning requirements also does not come under the ban, even though it may use public water, because it does not require an application to the Planning or Zoning Board.

Planning Board Chairman Margen Penick suggested that while the ban is in effect a committee composed of the engineers of both municipalities and representatives of the Fire Department devise "reasonable" standards or criteria for water pressure and flow. These standards would apply to all new development as a condition of approval.

"There is some very important work that has to be done," said Borough Council President Marvin Reed. He suggested that even when the ban was lifted, the standards would proscribe development in areas where water pressure is inadequate, unless the developer put in a booster pump or got Elizabethtown Water Company to install improvements that would assure adequate water pressure.

Mr. Reed said that often a developer offers a letter from Elizabethtown Water Company as proof that there is adequate water pressure in the fire hydrants for the development. "In our experience that is not sufficient evidence," he remarked. "Experience has shown that Elizabethtown is not keeping up with development in this community."

Borough Council was expected to adopt an ordinance placing a moratorium "on filing applications for development" and later to amend the ordinance to exempt construction that does not involve use of public water.

Central Jersey Ranked 2nd Best Place to Live

Central New Jersey was ranked second in this year's Money magazine survey of the 300 best places to live in the country. Major factors considered in selecting the best and worst regions, based on reader surveys of the most important attributes, include a low crime rate, likelihood that housing prices will appreciate, and the availability of doctors.

Danbury, Conn., was ranked first in the survey. Norwalk, Conn., ranked third, followed by, in order: Long Island, N.Y., San Francisco; Nashua, N.H.; Los Angeles-Long Beach; Orange County, Calif; Boston; and Bergen and Passaic Counties. The Atlantic City area ranked 300th.

Bus Route for Senior Picnic

Two school buses will be available to transport seniors to the Landau-Princeton University Picnic to be held on Friday, August 5, from 4 to 6:30 at Forbes College.

One bus will depart from Elm Court at 3:20, be at Redding Circle at 3:30, Community Park Complex at 3:40, Mt. Pisgah Church at 3:45 and Witherspoon/Green Street at 3:50.

The second bus will leave Holly House in Princeton Community Village at 3:30, be at Terhune and Ewing at 3:40, and pick up residents of Spruce Circle (Senior Resource Center) at 3:50.

If there are any questions about transportation, call the Senior Resource Center at 924-7108. If it rains, the picnic will be in the dining hall at Forbes College.

Parking is available in Lot 23 on the University campus off Faculty Road. Shuttles will be provided from Lot 23 to the picnic area from 3:30 until 4:15 and again at the end of the picnic.

EPA Selects Remedies For Area Superfund Sites

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has selected remedies for the Montgomery Township and Rocky Hill Superfund sites. Cost of cleanup actions is estimated at $2.5 million.

In 1978, a study by Rutgers University of the Rocky Hill Municipal Wellfield revealed a trichloroethane (TCE) contamination in this potable water source, which serves the Borough of Rocky Hill. As a result, the well was closed and later reopened after the Borough installed two air stripping units in 1983.

The discovery of this contamination led to the testing of private wells serving the Montgomery Township Housing Development. These 1979 tests showed that approximately half the wells had TCE contamination.

In March, 1981, at Montgomery Township's request, the Elizabethtown Water Company extended its mains to serve part of the development with public water. A 1987 agreement provided for the connection of residences which had either shown contamination or were threatened with contamination to a public water system.

The remedy includes:

• Extraction of the contaminated groundwater through pumping, followed by on-site treatment and reinjection of the treated water back into the underlying aquifer. The groundwater will be treated to achieve Federal and State cleanup standards;

• Connection of any remaining affected residences to the public water supply;

• Sealing of private water supply and monitoring wells within the contaminant plume; and,

• Implementation of a groundwater sampling program to monitor the effectiveness of the cleanup.

The remedy should become operational within two years.

Clerk Is Charged With Liquor Sale to Minors

A store clerk at Varsity Liquors was charged with selling liquor to minors on Friday night, after police witnessed a minor leaving the store with a case of beer.

Borough police driving an unmarked car followed the young man and three other minors. When the police stopped the car, they detected the odor of marijuana and found a small amount of the drug in a bag in the car. Police also found and confiscated a driver's license with an altered birth date belonging to the minor who bought the beer. The investigation revealed that the altered I.D. was not used to purchase the liquor.

Police returned to Varsity Liquors with the young man who made the purchase and identified the store clerk who made the illegal sale as Robert Giben of East Windsor. Giben was charged with sale of an alcoholic beverage to a person under legal age.

Peter Nelson, 20, of East Windsor was charged with possession of alcoholic beverage by a minor. Patrick Redmond, 19, of Courtney Drive, and Peter Donnelly, 20, of Autumn Hill Road, were charged with possession of alcoholic beverage by a minor and possession of less than 50 grams of marijuana. Donnelly's driver's license was confiscated.

In another case of underage drinking, Michael Alvarez, 19, of Fern Way, Belle Mead, and David Morgan II, 20, of Lebanon, were charged with attempting to buy alcoholic beverages late Friday night.

The minors were caught after a Winberie's Restaurant employee refused to serve them because they were using altered I.D. The employee followed the youths and saw them discard their I.D., which he picked up and turned over to police.

More underage drinkers were charged with consumption of alcohol by a minor after drinking at Marita's Restaurant on Friday night.

Kevin Donovan, 18, of the Great Road, Keith Donovan, 18, of the same address, John Suth, 18, of Trenton, and a juvenile were arrested after witnesses saw Keith Donovan break a window at the Annex Restaurant with his fist. Donovan, who injured his hand, was also charged with criminal mischief.

The youths had entered Marita's through a rear door and carried altered driver's licenses. They were apprehended on Tulane Street after witnesses saw the window broken and described the young men.

A juvenile was referred to the Borough Juvenile Officer after attempting to cash an altered check at Princeton Bank on Friday afternoon. A teller notified the police, who apprehended the young woman. She was also carrying two checks stolen from her employer, a Lawrenceville resident. The juvenile, who worked as a housekeeper, had altered her employer's check to read $65 rather than $60.

Witnesses Aid Recovery Of Stolen Synthesizer

Two observant individuals saw a man enter a dormitory room window at 1901 Hall and exit carrying a black case on Thursday night. They followed him to Prospect Avenue, where he entered Campus Club and exited without the case. The police were called, the case — which turned out to be a keyboard synthesizer — was found in the club and the owner was notified.

The suspect disappeared but was described as a black male, 5'8", wearing a white Princeton T-shirt, black pants, and bright yellow sneakers.

A suitcase was stolen from the dining room at Marita's when it was left overnight on Friday. The victim, a Princeton resident, lost $2040 worth of clothing.

Two parking meters valued at $400 were stolen on Nassau Street overnight last Thursday. The meters were removed by force, not cutting tools.

Bicycles were stolen from various University locations last week. A locked $257 bicycle belonging to a Princeton resident was stolen near the Dinky Station last Wednesday. On Friday afternoon, a locked $130 bike belonging to a student from Pakistan was stolen from outside of Spelman Hall. In both cases chains were cut to free the bikes. An unlocked $250 bike belonging to a Massachusetts resident was taken from the basement of Lockland Hall where it was left overnight last Thursday.

Suspect Caught in Case Of Criminal Mischief

Victor Petrone Jr., 19, a resident of Princeton Community Village, was charged with criminal mischief and reckless driving after an investigation led police to his damaged car.

The investigation began at 2:33 a.m. on Friday when a Township police officer reported that street signs had been run over by a vehicle in the Bunn Drive-Terhune Road area.

Following an anonymous tip, police found a 1975 Pontiac in the PCV parking lot, with traces of green paint and damage to the front license plate and bumper. The car belongs to Petrone, who was charged with the crime and scheduled to appear in court in September.

Less than $500 worth of damage was done to bike crossing, no parking, and speed limit signs on Bunn Drive at PCV, at Peterson's Guides, and at North Harrison Street; on North Harrison at Opinion Research; and at Terhune and Journey's End Lane.

Burglars stole $500 worth of jewelry and three silver dollars from a State Road home on Monday afternoon. A rear door was forced open and the house was left ransacked.

Reports of smoke at Princeton Shopping Center brought fire equipment and ten firefighters to the Great Wall Restaurant last Tuesday at 3:03 p.m. Sissi Lu, owner of the restaurant, had already extinguished an oil fire in a cooking wok with a hand extinguisher.

A kitchen worker was hurt when the cook, Chen Kung Chow, slipped on the floor and spilled the hot oil on the employee's legs. The injured worker was taken to the Medical Center for treatment and the kitchen was vented with an exhaust fan.

A Princeton Packet newspaper machine at the corner of Guyot and Witherspoon streets was broken between 9 a.m. on July 18 and 8:50 a.m. the following day. Thieves stole a $5 coin tray and $1.50 in cash and left the newspapers.

A car driven by John Moore, 36, of Kendall Park fishtailed and crossed into the northbound lane of Mercer Road near the bridge, hitting an oncoming car driven by Anita Blatt, 38, of Robbinsville. Ms. Blatt was taken to the Medical Center after complaining of pain and neck injury. Mr. Moore was charged with failure to keep right.

Stanworth Lane resident David Hirsch, 30, struck the car of Dennis O'Neil, 27, of Neshanic when he failed to notice that Mr. O'Neil's car was stopped at a red light on Route 206 at Cherry Valley Road. Both cars were travelling north. Mr. Hirsch complained of pain but refused treatment and his passenger, Mourad Moussa, also of Stanworth Lane, was incapacitated and suffered contusions and abrasions. Both men were taken to the Medical Center.

Pizza Delivery Begun To Meet Teen Job Needs

It was early July, and Princeton High School graduate Jon Richter was still looking for a job. So were a number of his friends. "No one was hiring that late," he said."

Looking in the newspaper, he saw that Pizza Star owner Rosa Spera had won a Princeton Entrepreneurship Award. This encouraged him, and nine of his friends, to ask Ms. Spera if she would consider adding a delivery service. "We came to her to ask her to set it up," said Mr. Richter. "She didn't really want to deliver, but since we needed jobs, she went along with the idea."

Mr. Richter, who plans to enter the University of Rochester in September, said he went to two parties and put the word out that pizza deliverers were needed. People started calling him, and now there are 14 students in Pizza Star's employ.

Several of the students, including Mr. Richter, organized the delivery system. Ms. Spera gave the young people every opportunity to work on their own as they went about such tasks as keeping records and making assignments, said Mr. Richter.

Now, he added, everything is going pretty well, with deliveries getting faster every day. And, best of all, "a lot of us are making double what our other friends are making."

Family Block Party

Family Service Princeton Area will hold a Family Block Party in celebration of its 90th anniversary on Sunday evening, August 7, from 6 to 8.

The festivities will take place at the Princeton office of Family Service, 120 John Street, known to many as the Dorothea House. John Street, from Paul Robeson Place to Green Street, will be closed to traffic during the party.

Residents are invited to bring a picnic supper and a chair or blanket to sit on. Fred Walker, magician and illusionist, will present "Magic Mania" at 7 on an outdoor stage. The show is geared to both children and adults. Music and dessert will be provided by Family Service Princeton Area following the show.

Midge Fleming has coordinated the event with the help of the Rev. Michael Nabors and Inez Williams of the First Baptist Church. In case of rain, the magic show will be held indoors at the church.

More Boys Than Girls Born at Medical Center

In the week ending July 21, there were 18 boys and 12 girls born at Princeton Medical Center.

Sons were born to Alex and Cathleen Tucker, 22-01 Deer Creek Drive, Plainsboro; Gary and Sheila Kminek, 11 Wynbrook, Hightstown; Elliott and Lori Katz, 159 Thoreau Drive, Plainsboro, all on July 15; Lewis and Doreen Kassel, 24A Chestnut Court, July 16;

Courter Town Meeting Is Held at Borough Hall

About 50 people came to Borough Hall Tuesday night for a "town meeting" held by 12th District Congressman Jim Courter. Princeton is part of the 12th District.

About half the people in the room were from Princeton, and the overriding area concern appeared to be the White Farm development. Richard Baker Jr., president of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society, asked Congressman Courter to consider sponsoring a bill that would protect the Princeton Battlefield in the way a current bill seeks to preserve the Manassas Battleground in Virginia.

The Congressman said he would review the issue and get in touch with Mr. Baker as well as with others in the room supporting Mr. Baker's views.

The meeting was perhaps most notable for the presence of two potential candidates for next year's gubernatorial race. Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund, who introduced Congressman Courter, has announced her interest in obtaining the Democratic nomination. Mr. Courter is a leading Republican contender for the top spot on the State ticket.

In November, Mr. Courter will seek his sixth term in the United States Congress. He is opposed by Democrat Norman Weinstein.

Dieting Can Reduce High Cholesterol

High cholesterol has been shown to increase the risk of heart disease and many people are working to lower their cholesterol levels. Though it's true that losing weight by any means will lower cholesterol to some degree, a proper diet and exercise program is the most effective way to deal with high cholesterol.

A recent evaluation study of the Diet Center Program showed that in only eight weeks dieters were able to lower their total cholesterol by over 13 percent! The study concluded that the Diet Center Program is an excellent way to lose weight, lower cholesterol and generally improve health.

"World in Your Garden" Theme of Annual Exhibit

More than 120 varieties of flowers from five continents will be on view in this year's open house at Rutgers University's display gardens, which will take place from 8:30 to 3 on Saturday.

"The World in Your Garden" is the theme for the open house, a popular annual program at the State University of New Jersey's Cook College. The gardens are located off Ryder Lane, east of Route 1 in New Brunswick.

An expanded home vegetable garden adjoins the flower display in Donald B. Lacey Gardens. It will be staffed by experts from Cook College, who will answer questions about varieties and cultural practices.

The garden clinic will be supplemented by guided tours and illustrated lectures in nearby Holly House. Plastic mulch, drip irrigation, composting, and other practical ideas for the garden will be featured.

Flowers on view in the ornamental display include ageratum and zinnia from North America, scarlet sage and verbena from Central and South America, foxglove and snapdragon from Europe, dianthus and statice from Asia, impatiens and vinca from Africa and helichrysum from Australia.

The events are open to the public free of charge.

Raffle Set to Benefit Senior Resource Center

The Princeton Senior Resource center will hold the drawing for its annual raffle at the Landau's-Princeton University Senior Citizen's Picnic on August 5 on the University grounds. All proceeds will be used to benefit the center's programs and services.

Prizes to be raffled include dinner and cocktails for two at Lahiere's, two pairs of tickets to a play at McCarter Theatre, two Icelandic blankets, two Cannon bath towel sets, a hand-carved miniature bird and lunch for two at Prospect House with Karen Jezierny.

The tickets cost $2 and are available at the Senior Resource Center at Spruce Circle and at the picnic.

For more information, call 924-7108.

Baker's Basin Agency Again Open for Business

The Baker's Basin motor vehicle agency on Route 1, which was closed for approximtely six weeks while asbestos insulation was removed, has reopened.

Renovations will continue at the site throughout the summer, but most regular agency business will not be affected.

Although the agency is reopened, the driver test center remains closed. Persons who would normally go to Baker's Basin for the written and vision tests required for a driver's license should go to the Hamilton agency on Route 33 or the Trenton agency at 135 East State Street.

The driver testing centers will return to their former locations when all renovations are completed.

Seminar on Adoption Planned at Forrestal

Today's Adoption Agency, of Merrick, N.Y., will hold a seminar on adoption on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Marriott Hotel in Forrestal Village.

The seminar will deal with adoption readiness, correct procedures to follow when adopting, advantages and disadvantages of different methods of adoption, and procedures to adopt children who are available from this agency.

For further information, or reservations, call Irwin Wein at (516) 785-2893.

Disney's 'Winnie the Pooh'

Walt Disney's The Mony Adventures of Winnie the Pooh will be shown Saturday at 10 at the John Witherspoon School Auditorium.

The film is the final feature in the Recreation Department's summer film series. It will be shown with a cartoon short, The Ugly Duckling. The showing is free and families are particularly welcome. For more information call the Recreation Office at 921-9480.

Planetarium Shows Set At Re-Furbished Facility

The re-furbished planetarium of the New Jersey State Museum has a state-of-the-art Minolta MS-10 instrument, capable of producing more than 6,000 stars on the dome-shaped simulated sky. Summer programs through August 26 will take advantage of this new capability.

"Summer Skies," featuring a look at planets, constellations and bright stars visible in the summer, takes place every Tuesday through Friday at 11 and again on Saturday and Sunday at 3. "Star Showers," a presentation on asteroids, comets and meteor showers, is shown at 1 on Tuesday through Friday and at 2 and 4 on Saturday and Sunday. Children under seven are not permitted at either program.

"The Friendly Stars" for family groups, with no age limit, is shown on Thursday and Friday at 10 and on Saturday and Sunday at 1. The State Museum, a division of the Department of State, is located at 205 West State Street, Trenton. Closed Mondays and State holidays, it is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9 to 4:45, and Sunday from 1 to 5.

Free parking is available weekends behind the planetarium. Admission is free.

Free Class at Orchards

Terhune Orchards will offer a free canning and freezing class Tuesday at 10 at the orchards.

Pam Mount, co-owner of Terhune Orchards, will demonstrate her methods of canning and freezing. Mrs. Mount says the peaches are now at their peak, and invites everyone to learn how to can and freeze them at their best for the winter months ahead. One participant will receive a free basket of peaches.

To register for the class, call 924-2310.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

MITE WATCH —

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Deciduous trees often take on a bronze, dusty look this time of year. Spruce, Hemlock, Arborvitae, even Azaleas, Boxwood and Privet may have a chlorotic appearance. Too often this is dismissed as due to hot, dry weather. The cause, many times, is an infestation of mites, some so tiny that hundreds congregate on a single leaf. Mite damage is not merely marring the green appearance of leaves and needles, but in actuality, sapping the tree's vitality. Twig dieback may result. In some areas where drought conditions exist this can hasten a tree's decline. Mites can be controlled by spraying the leaves with a miticide. Supplement this spraying with a "deep-root" application of a balanced liquid fertilizer to help restore the tree's vigor. To determine if your tree has mites just make this simple test — shake or beat a few twigs over a sheet of paper or cardboard. Mites that drop can be seen scurrying across the paper.

Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) with any questions you may have concerning your valuable trees and shrubs.

Township Engineer Robert Kiser Needs to Be "A General Practitioner of Engineering"

As Township Engineer, Robert V. Kiser wears many hats.

Roads, sewers, garbage collection, the recycling shed, leaf collection, snow removal, and maintaining Township property — parks, buildings and vehicles — are all in his bailiwick, as might be expected. The public may not be as aware of Mr. Kiser's skill in obtaining grant monies from the State or in negotiating contributions from developers which serve to stretch the taxpayer's dollar for infrastructure improvements. Nor is it generally known how much of the design of projects ranging from the Township's new $2 million North Ridge sewer system to the improved Harrison Street-Valley Road intersection and other major road reconstruction is done in the Engineering Department, under Mr. Kiser's supervision.

Robert V. Kiser
A Man Who Wears Many Hats

A 1974 graduate of Lafayette College with a B.S. in civil engineering, Mr. Kiser is licensed as a professional engineer in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and as a professional planner in New Jersey. After graduation, he worked for the City of Easton, Pa., for nine years, including five years as Director of Public Services and City Engineer. He is registered as a sewerage enforcement officer in Pennsylvania as well as a land surveyor.

In 1983 he accepted the position of Princeton Township Engineer and Director of Public Works. As such he supervises a department of about 35 full-time employees and a number of part-time seasonal employees, and he also administers the Township's largest capital budget.

Engineering Departments. Peter Kneski is the Assistant Township Engineer and also the Township Zoning Officer. John Clausen Sr. heads the Public Works Department, which employs 18 full-time employees and five or 10 part-time seasonal workers. Carl Lindgren and another full-time custodian are in charge of maintaining Township buildings.

Two engineering assistants, a couple of inspectors and a draftsperson are kept busy on a myriad of projects which Mr. Kiser says have intensified in number and in scope over the past several years, due to increased development in the Township and the lack of attention paid to infrastructure over the years. There is a secretary for engineering, another for zoning and a third general secretary.

Last spring, two resignations and a retirement created three vacancies in the Engineering Department and offered an opportunity for reorganization. Mr. Kiser promoted an engineering assistant with seven years experience in the department to be manager of the technical engineering section. He also hired a new administrative assistant who has extensive computer experience and will assist in the computerization of the department. He would like to add a deputy engineer who would function as an enforcement officer.

To some, the very term "computerization" is synonomous with depersonalized service and glitches. However, a municipal engineering department is responsible for maintaining an up-to-date owner's list of all properties in the Township and keeping track of such things as developer guarantees, street opening permits, sewer connection permits and grant applications, as well as bids, specifications and contracts for goods and services ranging from asphalt for road repair to oil and gas for police cars to construction work on a variety of projects.

Littte Spent on Roads. Moreover, Mr. Kiser would like to track Township vehicle maintenance requirements by computer, and to log in complaints about road conditions to help him decide which roads to fix first. "When I came here in 1983, the total budget for road repair was $20,000," he notes. "Considering that we have 83 miles of roads in the Township, that was a drop in the bucket."

He has spent much effort over the past five years in developing a systematic approach to road improvements and carrying them out. The capital budget for road repair has correspondingly risen to more than $1.6 million in 1988. Taking as top priority roads that serve as major arteries and were in the worst shape, Mr. Kiser saw to the resurfacing of Witherspoon Street from

Hearing

Mr. Curran is formally objecting to what he says is "inadequate" time to examine the documents in the complicated case. However, in a brief telephone interview late last Tuesday afternoon, he said he was objecting to the dismissal of the damages suit brought by Calton Homes against Dravo Corp., former Mayor Winthrop S. Pike, Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer and members of the 1984 Township Committee.

During 1984 the Township was attempting to negotiate a settlement to litigation involving Princeton Ridge, then owned by Dravo Corp. Learning that Calton Homes (which, seeking to build 1230 units on the White Farm in 1984 brought a Mt. Laurel suit challenging the Township's zoning as exclusionary) had purchased an option on the Princeton Ridge lands, Township officials refused to continue negotiations as long as Calton held the option.

Calton thus was forced to drop the option on the Princeton Ridge lands but sued Dravo and the Township for damages, charging interference with its contract. As a result of that lawsuit, Mr. Schmierer and former Mayor Pike withdrew from subsequent negotiations with Calton over the Mt. Laurel litigation and the White Farm.

The case has never been brought to trial, but was added to the stipulations in the settlement agreement ultimately reached between the Township, the Planning Board and Calton Homes over the White Farm. The settlement agreement, along with the Township's plan to produce 275 units of lower and moderate income housing, are the subject of the hearing in Judge Serpentelli's courtroom August 9.

Suit Has Dragged On. Mr. Curran is alleging that there has never been an explanation as to why the suit has been allowed to drag on and why it was included in the settlement agreement. He points out that entirely different properties are involved.

The Friends of Princeton Open Space asked to file a "friend of the court" brief on the case back in 1984 when the litigation was first initiated. As such they are not "objectors," but are expected to address issues of the historic nature of the White Farm and its environmental constraints. The Friends will be represented by Wendy Mager as their attorney.

Another "objector," is Richard W. Baker Jr., president of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society, who will speak against a proposed de-designation of part of the site from the National Historic Register. Mr. Baker says his 1½-page written "critique" also addresses what he views as the "alarming" traffic consequences from the 300 residential units that will be built on the White Farm if the settlement agreement is approved by Judge Serpentelli.

In a related matter, the hearing before Judge Serpentelli involving sewer treatment capacity applications for a number of projects in Princeton was also postponed from this past Tuesday. Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority Attorney David Goldberg said he felt it was more important to have a complete record before the judge rather than to rush to schedule a hearing before the SBRSA's July meeting, also set for this past Tuesday as TOWN TOPICS went to press.

Mr. Goldberg said that he will seek a hearing in advance of the August 23 SBRSA meeting. The River Road treatment plant is rapidly running out of capacity, and the SBRSA has received more applications than it has remaining capacity, some of them Mt. Laurel projects claiming "scarce resource" priority. Judge Serpentelli ordered SBRSA not to grant any further requests until he has reviewed the applications and can hold a hearing.

Registration Under Way For After-School Program

Registration is currently being accepted for the YWCA After-School Program for the 1988-89 school year. Program sites are available in Princeton, Lawrenceville, Cranbury and Washington Township for children in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The program takes place every day, including most school holidays and vacations as well as early dismissal days. Regular activities include a multi-media arts and crafts program, active and quiet play, movies, daily homework time, academic enrichment activities, tutorial services, numerous field trips, library and scout programs, recreational swim, intergenerational programs with community nursing homes and daily snacks, approved and supervised by the New Jersey Department of Education Child Care Food Program.

In Lawrenceville and Washington Township a breakfast program is offered from 7:15 until the start of the school day. Breakfast, as prescribed by the Department of Nutrition Child Care Food Program, will be offered daily for those who enroll in this program.

Membership in the Princeton YWCA is required for participation in the Before- and After-School Program. Children in the After-School Program may enroll in YWCA Youth Department enrichment courses at special reduced rates. Transportation will be provided from all After-School sites contingent upon the number of children enrolled.

Limited scholarships are available for those qualify. For tuition fees and additional information, call Lois Altschul or Rose Nevruz at the YWCA, 497-2100.

Adult Leagues Planned By YMCA for Autumn

The Princeton Family YMCA is preparing for the start of its fall adult league programs.

This September the YMCA will run leagues in soccer, touch football, volleyball and over-30 basketball, squash and racquetball. Several of the YMCA Leagues have more than one level of competition. Volleyball, for example, has three competitive and recreational levels.

The YMCA plans to add a new Saturday afternoon volleyball league to keep up with the demand from teams.

All the adult leagues are coed, and open to any Mercer County resident. For more information, call Karen Smith at 497-YMCA, or stop by the YMCA.

TOY!

Look at me. I'm really hurt. And do you want to know why?

Well, this "supposed" friend of mine complimented me on my high tech bicycle and how sleek and professional it looked and then asked me if I bought it at a kid's toy store.

WHAT? I said. Maybe I shouted it. Whatever, I got his attention.

Professional bikers like me only buy cycling equipment from Joy's Cycles. I mean, what kid's toy store puts the bike together for you. You're lucky if they hold the door while you bump and jerk that awkward box into the parking lot.

But Joy's Cycles not only fully assembles your bicycle, they also road test it and give you a free check up in a month just to make sure everything is working properly.

And when something does go wrong, Joy's Cycles has the quality parts and professional service people to make it right again.

So okay, my friend apologized to me for his huge blunder and we're buddies again. He even complimented me on my new watch, but do you know what's strange?
He never asked me where I bought it.

Julian C. Bleecker, a 1984 graduate of Princeton High School, has joined Data General in Westboro, Mass., as a hardware engineer. He graduated from Cornell University's School of Engineering in May, where he was a leader in the Corporate Window program of the Institute of Electronic and Electrical Engineers.

James A. Kuser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Kuser Jr. of Green Avenue, Lawrenceville, was selected by faculty members as a member of the Eglin Society at The Lawrenceville School. Named for the late Dean of Students, Thomas W. Eglin, the society is comprised of ten students who are chosen for their unselfishness and uncalculating service to the school and to fellow students, for their kindness and their leadership, particularly as evinced in acts of moral courage.

Mr. Kuser, who will be a senior at Lawrenceville in the fall, is the recent recipient of the Yale Club Book Prize and the Foreign Languages Prize for beginning Spanish. He also won the William A.D. Evans Jr. Prize for overall excellence in his house. He was the co-captain of the JV soccer team, co-captain of JV hockey, and a member of the JV lacrosse team.

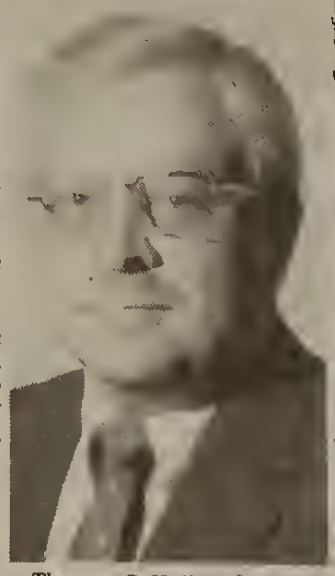
He was the head of the business board of the Dramatic Club and has been selected as the Head Campus Guide for next year and co-chairman of the Political Awareness Society.

David A. Cataprice, 42 Valley Road, has been named to the dean's list in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Cecelia Manning, daughter of Drs. Winton H. and Nancy G. Manning, 12 Morven Place, has received the Richmond Harold Shreve Award of the College of Architecture of Cornell University. The prize is given in recognition of work of outstanding originality and excellence in the field of architecture.

Miss Manning received an M.A. in architectural history from Cornell in January of this year and is employed in the Department of Historic Preservation at Short and Ford, Princeton. She is a graduate of Princeton Day School and Yale College.

Scott G. St. George of Princeton, a broadcast communications major, is among 30 East Carolina University students spending the summer at Walt Disney World in a work-learning arrangement.



Thomas C. Kelly, of Princeton, lecturer in marketing at Rider College for the past three years, has been appointed to the newly created position of assistant dean for external affairs in the School of Business Administration.

Before joining the Rider business faculty in 1985, Mr. Kelly worked for 14 years with AT&T.

Zoe Ostergren, 45-C Greenbrier Row, has graduated from Emerson College in Boston, Mass.

Michele L. Kjorlien, daughter of Jean and Ralph Kjorlien, 115 Longview Drive, has been named to the merit list at Kenyon College for the 1987-88 academic year.

be used. "We have to ask, one, is it possible for them to be used, and, two, whether they should be used for recreation. They are very valuable pieces of land."

Council President Marvin Reed noted that the PSOC landfill is in the process of closing, and there are constant methane probes. "It will probably be 20 to 30 years before we can use the landfill site," he said. "The first use would be for recreation. This landfill may be reserve space 30 years from now for the ultimate recreation program."

Township Mayor Kate Litvack pointed out that Community Park was a landfill many years ago, "Because of this, we have drainage and other problems on the fields," she said, noting that one of the reasons Community Park is supposed to be looked at by the consultant is to see if these drainage problems can be solved.

After the consultant's study is completed — Mayor Sigmund declined to estimate a date for this — the municipalities foresee a second phase that would include engineering studies. This first report would provide only very preliminary design work, but should indicate what should be developed both now and in the future.

Mayor Sigmund said the cost of developing additional active recreation areas is not yet known, nor does she know whether any outside funds are available. "We will seek any help there is," she said. "There is a great deal of community support, but few federal or State funds." She does believe, however, that Princeton residents will support spending tax money to capitalize these improvements.

but work in the original museum is still going on. Museum visitors will be allowed to tour the renovated and new galleries as long as work isn't currently under way.

The $9 million project has taken longer than had been originally anticipated, said Princeton University Vice President Eugene McPartland. "On the other hand," he added, "the scope of the project grew considerably." Delays were caused by new fire code regulations, and there was somewhat more than the usual amount of design and construction problems.

In May, the museum plans an exhibit, "Calligraphy and the East Asian Book," in honor of Frederick Mote, retired Princeton University professor of East Asian studies.

The new wing adds 27,187 square feet of space, for a total museum square footage of 65,592. Gallery space in the addition will total 6,664 square feet. The rest of the wing will be devoted to offices, storage areas, and a conservation studio.

Additions to the reopened museum will include two new rest rooms, accessible to the handicapped; a lift for the handicapped; a photography student center; an enlarged shop and information desk; and a docents/friends lounge.

Calling All Crafters

The Pennington School is looking for crafters to participate in Community Day Saturday, September 17. Community Day is one of many events planned to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the founding of The Pennington School. The school is sponsoring this day of arts, crafts, games and sporting activities for families in the Hopewell Valley area.

A special appearance by Rocky Bleier, former Pittsburgh Steeler, has been scheduled as the highlight of the day.

The fee per crafter is $20. The school will provide the number of tables requested. The events of Community Day will take place, rain or shine.

Crafters interested in participating should call the office of public relations at The Pennington School at 737-1838.

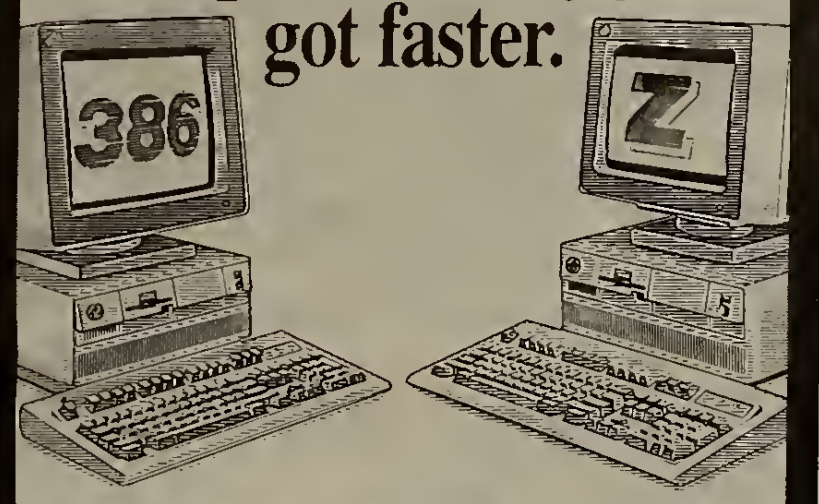
The fastest-selling computer family just got faster.



IBM® presents the new desktop PS/2® Model 70 386 and the Model 50 Z.

A scorching 25 MHz 386 processor gives the desktop Model 70 breakneck speed and raw power for new levels of performance.

The zero-wait-state Model 50 Z has high-speed memory matched to a 286 processor and larger capacity fixed disks. The result is a performance improvement of up to 35%.

Both new models include the PS/2's integrated "total-system" design and Micro Channel™ architecture—they're ideal for OS/2® applications. They also offer advanced graphics and the kind of quality and reliability only IBM can offer.

Stop in today. We'll show you the two fastest members of the fastest-selling computer family.

OBITUARIES

William Kastrinos, 66, of Cherokee Drive, Pennington, died July 22 at the Robert Wood Johnson Medical Center in New Brunswick.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Kastrinos had lived in Hopewell Township for 25 years. He worked for Educational Testing Service for 24 years and at the time of his retirement in 1984 was director of test development for the Center for Occupational and Professional Assessment (COPA). After retiring he served as a consultant for ETS.

He received his B.S. degree from Northern Illinois University, his M.S. from the University of Illinois and his Ph.D. from Purdue University. He taught and coached at Elmhurst College and Glenbard High School in Glen Ellyn, Ill., and was a professor of science education at Purdue before moving to New Jersey. He was a former resident of West Lafayette, Ind., and Wheaton, Ill.

He was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Pennington, and served on the administrative board and the pastor-parish relations committee of the church.

Surviving are his wife, Dora Hancock Kastrinos; three sons, William T. of Redlands, Calif., Glenn A. of Ewing Township, and John R. of Cambridge, Mass.; a sister, Elenore Goritz of Claremont, Calif., and three grandchildren.

The service was held at the First United Methodist Church of Pennington, the Rev. James Marshall and the Rev. Gehl Devore, co-officiating. Burial was in Harbourton Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Memorial Fund of the First United Methodist Church, 60 South Main Street, Peninngton 08534.

Alfred J. Pietrinferno, 77, of Hickory Court, died July 20 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Kingston, Mr. Pietrinferno lived in Princeton most of his life. He was a 1933 graduate of Rider College and a founding partner of A.J. Pietrinferno and Co. Accountants of Princeton. He retired in June. He served for 44 years as treasurer of the Gallup Organization Inc..

Mr. Pietrinferno was a former member and treasurer of the Princeton Lions Club and the Knights of Columbus Council No. 636. He was twice president of the Mercer Chapter of the New Jersey Association of Public Accountants and was a member of the National Society of Public Accountants.

Surviving are his wife, Mabel Todd Pietrinferno; two sons, Alfred J. Jr. of West Windsor Township and John H. Pietrinferno of Princeton; three daughters, Joan M. O'Kane of Princeton Junction, Mary Ann K. Pietrinferno of Princeton and Janet A. Pietrinferno of Plainsboro; a brother, William Pietrinferno of Princeton;

Also, five sisters, Elizabeth Catelli of Jamesburg, Ann Ferrara and Margaret Campbell, both of Princeton, Mary Alice Karnas of Hightstown and Jean Procaccino of Lawrence; and four grandchildren, Elizabeth O'Kane of Minneapolis, Thomas R. O'Kane of Lawrence, and A.J. Pietrinferno and Kristin L. Pietrinferno, both of West Windsor.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

Alfred M. Peiser, 69, of 11 Merrit Lane, Rocky Hill, died July 20 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Dr. Peiser had lived in Rocky Hill for the past 18 years. He received his A.B. dgree from Brooklyn College in 1940 and his master's degree and Ph.D. from Cornell University. He retired in 1985 from Mobil Oil Corp in Pennington, where he was a senior engineering consultant.

Dr. Peiser held many patents involving oil refinery technology. He was a past chairman of the Princeton Chapter of the United Jewish Appeal.

Surviving are his wife, Edith Peiser; a son, Richard Peiser of Glen Ellyn, Ill.; a daughter, Ruth Travis of Marlton; two grandsons, Adam and Steven Travis; and a brother, Donald Peiser of Highland Beach, Fla.

The service was held at the Princeton Jewish Center, Rabbi Melvin J. Glazer officiating. Burial was in Beth Israel Cemetery, Woodbridge. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the United Jewish Appeal or to the Princeton Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street.

Elten C. O'Hara, 74, died July 21 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. She was a lifelong Princeton resident.

Daughter of the late Ellen and Andrew R. O'Hara, she is survived by a sister, Anne M. O'Hara of Cranbury; a brother, Andrew R. O'Hara of Princeton; five nieces and a nephew.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

F. Edward Potter Jr., headmaster of the Peddie School for the past 11 years, died July 20 while vacationing in Maine. He was 45.

Mr. Potter was described as "a truly great headmaster who led the school to its greatest successes in its history" by Finn Caspersen, chairman of the school's board of trustees. During his tenure, Mr. Potter worked to increase the standard of excellence among students and to expand the physical plant.

He spearheaded a capital improvement program funded through grants and endowments by alumni. Walter Annenberg, Class of 1927, former U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain and founder of TV Guide magazine, presented Mr. Potter with a $10 million check for the school earlier this year.

Mr. Potter also worked to foster better relations with Hightstown. Earlier this year, he reached an agreement with Hightstown Mayor Richard Aughenbaugh whereby the school will make yearly donations in lieu of taxes to the Hightstown first aid squad and fire department.

Born in Hackensack, Mr. Potter was a graduate of St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H., and Amherst College. He held a master's degree in history from the University of Connecticut and taught four years at the Winchendon School in Massachusetts before going to the Moses Brown School in Providence, R.I., in 1970. He left there to come to Peddie in July, 1977.

Mr. Potter served as president of the New Jersey Association of Independent Schools in 1984-85. He also served on the board of directors of the Hightstown YMCA between 1977 and 1981 and the Family Service Agency of Princeton between 1983 and 1987.

Surviving are his wife, Hillary Bartlett Potter; two children, Tappen and Reid; his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Frances E. Potter Sr. of Hobe Sound, Fla., and a brother, the Rev. John Potter of Manchester, N.H.

The service was held in the Ayer Memorial Chapel on the Peddie School campus. Memorial contributions may be made to a memorial fund which the school has established in Mr. Potter's name.

Grace R. Mitchell, 94, a former Hopewell resident, died July 19 in Warminster General Hospital, Warminster, Pa.

RELIGION

Bulletin Notes

The Rev. Arlo D. Duba, Dean of the University of Dubuque Divinity School, will preach Sunday at the 10 a.m. service in the Princeton University Chapel. His sermon topic will be "What Is It?"

Dr. Duba is an alumnus of the University of Dubuque and Princeton Theological Seminary, where he earned both master's and doctoral degrees. He studied also at l'Institute Superieur de Liturgie in Paris, France. He served as chaplain and lecturer in liturgics at Westminster Choir College from 1957 to 1968 and was director of admissions and lecturer in worship at Princeton Seminary from 1969 to 1982.

He has published many articles and reviews in professional journals and has been a member of several commissions of the Presbyterian Church, USA, for the revision of the new Directory of Worship.

The five-member Toccoa Falls College music team will give performances Sunday at all three services of Princeton Alliance Church. The 10 a.m. service is at Wicoff School, Plainsboro, and the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services at Princeton High School. The group will present a varied program of hymns and gospel songs.

Toccoa Falls College is a fully accredited interdenominational college founded in 1907 by Dr. R.A. Forrest. The college specializes in training young men and women for church-related vocations. The Georgia college has sent its music team throughout the eastern United States.

Services and performances are open to all.

Christine Wyrtzen, composer of the children's music album Critter County, as well as ten other records and more than 100 songs, will give a concert of Christian contemporary songs under the auspices of Princeton Alliance Church on Friday, August 5, at 7 in the Princeton High School Auditorium.

She will be joined during this concert by the children in the audience, many of whom will have learned the Critter County music during "Kid's Klub Camp," the free Princeton Alliance Bible School, to be held August 1 to 5, from 9 to noon.

Tickets for the concert are $5, with children 12 and under admitted free. For information call the church office, 799-9000.

Princeton Alliance Church will hold a Women's Craft Workshop and Bible Seminar from 9 to noon daily from August 1 to 5 at Princeton High School.

Monday's session, "Starting at the Top," covers hair care and beauty tips; Tuesday, "Simply Extravagant," party foods and hors d'oeuvre; Wednesday, review of Christian literature; Thursday, "Mums the Word," flower arranging; and Friday, "That Perfect Piece," antiques and collectibles. Vivian Price, of Cranbury, will teach the seminar, entitled "Joyful Living," on such topics as holiness, faith, wisdom, serving and suffering.

Participation is free. For more information and registration, call 799-9000.

The Men's Day Committee of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church will sponsor a Bar-B-Que chicken and rib dinner Saturday starting at 11 a.m. The donation is $6 for chicken and $7 for ribs. Children under 12 are welcome for $2 less.

The Rev. David B. Cousin is pastor of the church. Robert E. Randolph and Robert S. Smith are chairman and co-chairman, respectively of the Men's Day Committee.

The Rev. Dr. Theodore Bachmann will be the guest preacher Sunday at 9:30 at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. Dr. Bachmann is a pastor, educator and author who serves as archivist for the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church. He received his undergraduate degree from Haverford College, his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and is a graduate of Philadelphia Seminary.

Having served the Lutheran Church in California, Brazil and Switzerland, he has lived in West Windsor for the past 25 years in between assignments in Switzerland.

Bunker Hill Lutheran Church will hold its Vacation Bible School Monday through Friday, August t through 5, from 9 to 11:30 at the church. The theme is "Welcome to God's Family," and children ages 3 through sixth grade are invited. The closing program will be held on Sunday, August 7, at 6.

For information call (201) 359-6302.

TRUTH MADE HER FREE.
An understanding of God, Truth, freed an Indiana woman from an infected lung, arthritis, and confinement to a wheelchair. It changed her whole life.
But this is not why she came to Christian Science in the first place. It was her hunger for an understanding of God.
If you are searching for the joyous freedom that comes from knowing God's presence in your life, come to our service this Wednesday evening. You will hear people like yourself testify to the power of God, Truth, in their own experience.

An Elm Road Resident Favors Low Speed Limit

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I live in Princeton Borough. I have neighbors all around me. My children like to play with the children across the street and down the street. My young son must cross the street each morning and afternoon during the school year to ride the school bus. I must enter and exit my driveway several times a dey. I have a sidewalk/bikepath along my property because, several ycars ago, the Borough deemed it desirable that pedestrians and bike riders should be able to travel along the road in safety.

I feel I should be treated with the same concern and consideration as those who live on Birch, Vandeventer and Wiggins, to name a few Borough streets. No one is disputing the 25 mph speed limit on those streets.

Arch C. Davis III, in his letter to this newspaper last week, called me "misguided." In his letter he has chosen to ignore what is so evident to those of us who live on Elm Road, namely that there are lots of us living here and we share a sense of neighborhood. Mr. Davis sees Elm Road, Mercer Road and Darrah Lane (in Lawrence) as "major through streets." Perhaps they are to him, but not to us.

With Elm Road posted at 25 mph, cars and trucks frequently travel at speeds up to 35 mph without being stopped. Does Mr. Davis really support speeds of 45 mph along Elm Road? If so, I wish he would first remedy the problems we have with the 25 mph posted speed limit — cars passing the school bus with its red lights flashing; collisions at the Rosedale intersection caused by those trying to beat the light or turn right on red without first checking for oncoming traffic; large trucks, ignoring posted weight limits, using Borough roads to avoid congestion on Rt. 206.

If all this traffic were permitted to travel at between 35 and 45, I would truly worry for the safety of my family and others. Borough Council was perceptive in its assessment of the conditions along Elm Road. I appreciate their wisdom in voting to maintain the 25 mph speed limit.

We belong to a community, Mr. Davis. The "traffic patterns of New Jersey" are not at issue. The community must set its own standards and enforce what is compatible with those standards. We should feel no requirement that it be made easier for people to enter or to leave Princeton. What is important is helping those who live in our neighborhoods to live safely and in peace. The danger of the Davis approach is that it would contribute to the demise of the Princeton community.

25mph Limit on Elm Rd. A Small Inconvenience

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In reference to Arch Davis's letter of July 22 in which he assails the Borough's decision to keep the 25 mph speed limit on Elm Road, we would like to say that we were surprised at the sentiment that speeds of 25 mph are an intolerable inconvenience to Princeton motorists.

We wonder at the values this opinion represents. Elm Road has elderly residents of the 300 Elm Road facility who must cross the road (without a stoplight) to catch a bus, and some handicapped elderly from the same address who navigate their motorized wheelchairs up the Elm Road hill, children who cross the street, ride bicycles and wait for their school buses, and residents who pull in and out of their driveways.

It seems to us that the reasonable response to increasing the speed limit in such an aree was, as the Borough decided, to maintain the 25 mph limit.

The spirit of this letter which challenges that speed limit disturbs us. It is our hope that we never get too hurried to accommodate the safety and welfare of others even if it means some inconveniences to ourselves. And anyone can see what a small inconvenience this presents by calculating the difference in travel time between 25 mph and 35 mph.

Urgent Princeton Need: A Beltway Around Town

To the Editor of Town Topics:

A recent letter in your excellent publication advocated an increase in the speed limit in a residential area, specifically on Elm Road. In my view, this would be an egregious error.

This opinion is based on 26 years experience in traffic engineering in Great Britain and in the United States — primarily in California and Washington, D.C., areas. Princeton's basic traffic problem is that you permit through traffic to use local streets. Thus, upping the speed limit would merely invite still heavier through traffic. End result: still more gridlock.

Washington, D.C., is an example of what Princeton urgently needs: beltways around your town. Friends advise that the S92 proposed beltway has been held up by Montgomery Township. If that is true, you should immediately start legal action against both the township and township officials responsible. They are destroying your lovely community. Best wishes.

Residents Encouraged To See Postcard Exhibit

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Having been away for the holiday, I have just caught up with my reading, which included the June 29 issue of TOWN TOPICS. Thank you for the article on the Historical Society of Princeton's exhibit, "Hidden Treasures: Bottles and Postcards of Princeton."

It is not quite accurate, however, to credit "The Evans Collection" (your label) for all of the postcards on display. Many of the cards are from the collections of Mr. Eric Greenfeldt and the Society itself.

Take a look at the wooderful card of the old "Renwick's" soda fountain and restaurant, Thompson Hall when it was labelled "Public Library," or the wonderful message on the postcard of St. Paul's Church before it was replaced by the current structure. I would be very happy to have those in my collection, but they are not mine.

I urge your readers to take a few minutes to browse through Bainbridge House when they are in town. Karen Richter and Nancy Clarke have done a bang-up job on the exhibit.

McCarter's Spirited Spoof of That Old-Time Religion, "Smoke on the Mountain," Is Funny & Entertaining

The hillbillies are alive with the sound of music in the world premiere of Smoke on the Mountain, second and final play of the McCarter Theatre summer season.

A spirited spoof of old-time religion, Southern Baptist-style, Smoke is too amiable to offend any but the hardest-shelled fundamentalist, biting enough to please the average anti-Baptist, and funny and melodic enough to delight nearly anyone in between who isn't actively allergic to country music and the showbiz side of small-town American religion.

Smoke's authorship is a bit more complicated than the program's simple "By Constance Ray" suggests. It was "conceived" by its director, Alan Bailey; and much of its hour-and-a-half running time is devoted to the singing and strumming — on just about every stringed instrument known to man, from ukelele to piano — of some 20 contemporary gospel songs by a dozen writers, including one by Alan Bailey entitled "Smoke on the Mountain."

But Ms. Ray has done an inspired job of arranging this material and stitching it together with funny but believable dialogue and monologues. Mr. Bailey's direction brings every instant to vivid life.

Ingenious Setting. Smoke has an ingenious setting by Ron Kadri that gives us the clapboard exterior, bird-nested steeple and all, of a typical rural American church — this one in Mt. Pleasant, N.C., "Home of the Pleasant Pickles" — and the interior as well.

It is a summer evening in 1938 and the plump Rev. Mervin Oglethorpe, in a shiny gray suit, is sweating because his congregation — the audience — is all in place but the Sanders Family Singers have not shown up since they delivered their instruments earlier, and he sent them up the road a piece to the Eat & Run cafe for a quick supper.

When they do arrive, full of apologies because their bus turned over in a ditch, there is a badminton-like bandying of scriptural one-liners, chapter and verse, between them and the preacher.

Oglethorpe is played by the same Kevin Chamberlin who was so good as the loony, fright-wigged Delmont in The Miss Firecracker Contest, which preceded Smoke and shares the coming weekend with it.

Both shows explode with talent which can best be appreciated by seeing both, since most of Smoke's actors were in Firecracker in vastly different roles. Here they not only act equally well, but sing and play at least one instrument apiece — except for Ms. Ray herself, who starred last week and now plays the one unmusical Sanders, whose specialty is "signing" song lyrics for the hearing impaired.

There being none of these in the congregation, she busies herself banging bells, cymbals and a tambourine, blowing a locomotive whistle, and describing the religious experience of pushing the blue button and sending TVA electricity into lower North Carolina.

Convincing Performances. She is wondrously convincing, as are: William Mesnick, last week's germ-ridden but cheerful drifter, this week's father of the Sanders clan; Linda Miles, then a wife-and-mother on the lam, now the piano-playing, song-belting Sanders mother; and Courtenay Collins, then Popeye Jackson the seamstress, now the guitar-strumming canary, Denise.

BELTING IT OUT, in McCarter Theatre's production of "Smoke on the Mountain," are Courtenay Collins and Robert Olsen, playing the twins, Denise and Dennis, of the gospel singing Sanders family.

News of the THEATRES

New in Smoke are Dan Manning as the Sanders uncle who went wrong and sings with tearful conviction of an experience in prison — "They're all goin' home but me" — and Robert Olsen, as Denise's twin Dennis, who plays the fiddle and for a small man uncorks a voice big enough to bring down the house, and almost the set as well.

The gospel songs, though simplistic, somehow manage not to be offensively irreligious or patronizing. Someone sings of dying: "I'll just be changin' my address;" someone else, "Keep your hand upon the throttle and your eyes upon the rails," "Filling station" is rhymed with "salvation."

When the music causes the Sanderses to gyrate a bit, Oglethorpe first tries to calm them, then explains to the audience, "They're not dancin', they're just movin' with the spirit!"

Mother Sanders delivers a "sermonette" for children, drawing on a couple of God's creatures, June bugs she has trapped in a handkerchief, and which she releases with hilarious results. She sings to an imaginary dog, "Shake hands with Jesus; give him your foot."

For those with a sense of humor about religion, this is one funny, thoroughly entertaining show. But it is close enough to what one imagines, or knows, really goes on at such small-town Saturday evenings, to be a little like going to church, too. Unless you're afraid they might get religion, take the children.

The actors must love the material, or the author, or the director, or the producer (Rob Lanchester, McCarter's Associate Artistic Director), or all

THE MISS FIRECRACKER CONTEST
comedy by Beth Henley, author of Crimes of the Heart
directed by Robert Lanchester
Burnt by a reputation she can't shake, Carnelle's leaving town in a blaze of glory. She's entered the Fourth of July beauty pageant and talent contest, gathering her wacky friends and relatives to help. Rich in uproarious, quirky Southern humor, it's a play about liberating ourselves from false obligations, the nature of beauty in America, and the resilience of human nature.

of the above, to work as hard as they did on opening night.

They may have been motivated, too, by the realization that there were New York theater people in the audience, and by the hope that Smoke on the Mountain, like last summer's McCarter premiere, Three Ways Home, will make it to Off-Broadway. The chances seem pretty good. Against it might be Smoke's sweetness and wholesomeness; but New York just may be ready for an infusion of these exotic elements.

Rained Out Last Week 'Pippin' Looks Ahead

The Pennington Players, besieged by bad luck from Mother Nature this past weekend, will continue their presentation of the musical Pippin at the Open Air Theatre, Washington's Crossing State Park. Four performances remain of this "musical that contrasts the real with the surreal," this Wednesday through Saturday at 8:30.

Pippin tells the story of Prince Pippin, the son of Charlemagne, and his search for self and fulfillment. The show includes a bit of magic, a murder, and a lot of song and dance. Kathy Garofano, who has performed in the past with Pennington Players, is directing this production.

Playing the lead role of Pippin is Walter Culpit, a recent graduate of Juniata College. Mr. Culpit performed in an Open Air Theatre production of Godspell last summer. Leading Player, Pippin's foil, is played by Sheila Truncellito, a graduate of DePauw University. Pippin's father, Charlemagne, is played by John Blackwell, who has performed in several Pennington Players productions in past seasons. The cast also includes a large number of ensemble players, who collectively share wide experience in area theater presentations.

Tickets are $5.50 on Wednesday and Thursday and $6.50 on Saturday and Sunday, with children under 12 admitted for $2.75 and $3.25, respectively. Tickets are available at the box office after 4:30 on the day of the show. For information call 737-1826.

'Savage in Limbo' Next For Princeton Rep Co.

Princeton Rep Company will present Savage In Limbo as its third production of the season in the air-conditioned Murray-Dodge Theatre. Opening night is this Thursday at 8.

The area premiere of a play by John Patrick Shanley, who won an Academy Award for his screenplay for Moonstruck, follows the first two Princeton Rep Company productions, What I Did Last Summer and Pump Boys and Dinettes.

Set in a Bronx bar, Savage in Limbo is about a night in the lives of five people who have different reactions to change. There is Denise Savage, who wants to change her life but doesn't know how; Tony Aronica, a successful "Italian Stallion," who knows that somewhere there is a better life, and Linda Rotunda, who is forced to examine herself when her boyfriend drops her to date "ugly girls."

Murk, a bartender who believes in routine, and April White, a would-be nun who went astray, complete the characters.

The cast for the professional Equity production includes Michael Jarel, who has appeared in movies and such television shows as The Equalizer and All My Children; Deborah Jeanne Culpin, last seen in McCarter Theatre's production of Steppin' Out; Jessica Marlowe, an actress with New York roles to her credit; Albert Chini; and Donna Mehle, also from New York, as Denise Savage.

The play opens Thursday and continues through Sunday, August 7. Performances are on Thursday, Friday and Satur-

"Chapter Two" Opens At Hopewell Theater

Chapter Two, Neil Simon's autobiographical play, opens Friday at the Off-Broadstreet Dessert Theatre in Hopewell for a five-weekend run. The show is a comedy about marriage and remarriage, and was made into a movie starring James Caan and Marsha Mason in 1980.

Two husband-and-wife teams comprise the Off-Broadstreet Theatre cast of Chapter Two. Rob and Catherine Rowe Pherson play George and Jennie, the duo who are afraid of reentering the dating scene but who soon find themselves head-over-heels in love. Mary and John Kemp of Ewing fill the roles of Jennie's frenetic friend, Fay, and of George's brother Leo, the bedroom barracuda.

The production is directed by Off-Broadstreet producer Robert Thick. Anthony Rizzo has designed a setting that encompasses two separate New York apartments.

Performances are weekends through August 27. On Friday and Saturday evenings, doors open at 7 for dessert with curtain at 8. Sunday matinees feature dessert at 1:30 with curtain at 2:30.

Admission Friday and Sunday is $13.75, Saturday admission is $15. Price includes both dessert and show. There is a senior citizen discount on Sunday matinees.

For reservations call 466-2766. The Off-Broadstreet Theatre is at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell.

Millionaire and Muralist Are Focus of New Play

A power struggle between millionaire Nelson Rockefeller and Mexican muralist Diego Rivera is the focus of a play opening Thursday at Rutgers University's Levin Theater.

The actual dispute that inspired Rocky and Diego (A Work in Progress) occurred during the construction of Rockefeller Center in New York. Mr. Rockefeller comisisoned his friend Rivera — a Communist sympathizer noted for his large murals dealing with the life, history and social problems of Mexico — to paint murals decorating Rockefeller's monument to capitalism. The play chronicles the ensuing struggle for power and personal freedom between the two strong-willed men.

CONFRONTATION: Diego Rivera, left, played by Juan M. Aguero, and Nelson Rockefeller (John M. Higgins) in a scene from Roger Cornish's "Rocky and Diego" (a work in progress), which opens Thursday at the Levin Theater in the Rutgers Arts Center, New Brunswick. The play runs through Sunday, August 7.

Rocky and Diego is the last of three new plays to be produced by the professional Levin Theater Company as part of RutgersSummerFest, a nine-week arts celebration at New Jersey's State University. The playwright is Roger Cornish, head of the playwriting program at Rutgers' Mason Gross School of the Arts.

The production runs through August 7, with a preview performance this Wednesday. Performances begin at 8 p.m. in the air-conditioned Levin Theater of the Rutgers Arts Center on George Street at Route 18. The theater will be dark on Monday.

This is Mr. Cornish's 25th produced and/or published play. He has edited several books, including a recent two-volume anthology, Landmarks of Modern British Drama.

Rocky will be played by John Michael Higgins, who has appeared at the St. Louis Repertory Theater, on Miami Vice, and off-Broadway. Juan Manuel Aguero will play Diego. Also appearing will be Carla Capps, W. Dennis Hunt, Craig MacDonald, Luann Adams, Laurinda Barrett and Marie Barrientos.

Tickets are $12. For further information, or to charge tickets by phone, call Rutgers Arts Tickets at (201) 932-7511.

Week's Films Are Listed For Kresge Auditorium

Summer Cinema continues in the air-conditioned Kresge Auditorium in the Frick Chemical building on Washington Road, with two movies every night except Monday.

This weekend the double bill will feature Prizzi's Honor at 7:15 and Mona Lisa at 9:30.

Prizzi's Honor, by the late John Huston, is based on Richard Condon's 1982 novel set inside the world of the Mafia. Jack Nicholson stars as Charley, a trusted enforcer for the

Shanghai Quartet to Play In Final Summer Concert

The Shanghai Quartet will perform Sunday at 8 outdoors in the main courtyard of the Princeton University Graduate College. This is the final concert in the 1988 season of the Princeton University Summer Chamber concert Series, and admission is free.

The Shanghai Quartet was formed at the Shanghai Conservatory in 1983, and is rapidly emerging as one of today's leading young string quartets. After gaining national recognition in competitions and performances throughout China, the quartet was selected to represent China at the Portsmouth International String Quartet Competition where it won second prize.

The members of the Shanghai Quartet left China to continue their studies with the Vermeer Quartet in the United States. Since their arrival in this country they have also studied with the Tokyo String Quartet and have participated in master classes with the Juilliard Quartet.

The program on July 31 begins with Haydn's String Quartet in G Major, Op. 76, No. 1, and proceeds to Webern's Five Pieces, Op. 5. Following intermission the Quartet will perform Beethoven's String Quartet in C-sharp Minor, Op. 131.

Audience members are encouraged to bring blankets or lawn chairs because there is no seating provided. The current policy at the Graduate College prohibits alcohol or picnicking.

Parking for the concert is on Springdale Road, and in Lot 19, off Springdale Road at the Graduate College. In case of rain or extreme weather conditions, the concert will be moved indoors to Richardson Auditorium in Alexander Hall. Call 452-5977 after 4 the day of the concert to check on the location.

Jazz Concert Planned In Mercer County Park

The Rick Fiori Trio will present a free concert Saturday at 7 in Mercer County Park, West Windsor.

This performance, which is presented in conjunction with the 4-H Fair, is part of the 1988 "Music in the Park" series presented by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission during July and August. Drummer Rick Fiori and his group have been playing their own special blend of mellow jazz in the Mercer County area for the past several years, and have developed an extensive following.

The performance will be held adjacent to the ice rink at Mercer County Park. There is no reserved seating. In the event of rain, the performance will be held inside the rink.

For further information call the Cultural and Heritage Commission weekdays at 989-6701. On the day of the concert, call Mercer County Park, 989-6530.

Four Piano Recitals Set At the Choir College

The final week of summer performances at Westminster Choir College will feature four piano recitals between August 1 and 4 in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster campus. The recitals begin at 8 and the public is invited at no charge.

Duo-pianists Phyllis A. Lehrer and Ena B. Barton will present a recital Monday at 8. Formed in 1984, the duo has performed regularly in New Jersey and New York. During their association they have received a number of awards both as a duo and as soloists. In 1987 both artists were presented by Artists' International on the Distinguished Artist Winners Series. Their solo recitals at Merkin Concert Hall received high praise.

Ms. Lehrer, a resident of Kendall Park, is head of Westminster's piano department. Ms. Barton, a resident of Pennington, is a member of the piano faculty at both Westminster Choir College and Westminster Conservatory, the community music school of the College.

On Tuesday, pianist Mary Stack, a graduate student at Westminster, will perform a recital. Tim Brown, a recent recipient of a master of music degree in piano pedagogy from Westminster, will present a lecture and piano recital on French composers, "Les Six," Wednesday, August 3, at 8.

Thursday, August 4, at 8 Elvina Truman Pearce will perform. Ms. Pearce is a faculty member at Northwestern University and a founding faculty member of the New School for Music.

Performances are subject to change. For current information call 921-2663.

Summer String Festival Is Set by Conservatory

Westminster Conservatory's annual Summer String Festival, August 8 to 12, is open to Suzuki and nonSuzuki students, ages 6 to 18. An intensive week of study, the festival offers string players the opportunity to work with a variety of instructors and clinicians in small and large groups. Orchestral skills, orchestra, Dalcroze eurythmics, chamber music, and note reading classes are some of the many activities offered. For more information, or a brochure, call the Conservatory office at 921-7104.

DUO-PIANISTS Ena Bronstein Barton, left, and Phyllis Alpert Lehrer will perform Monday at 8 in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster Choir College campus. The concert is free and open to the public.

String Band to Perform In South Brunswick Park

The Welcome Change String Band will perform Friday at 7 in Woodlot Park Amphitheater, West New Road, Kendall Park.

The group performs a blend of Irish music mixed with bluegrass, country and ethnic music. With fiddling, banjo and bagpipes, the performers do a show that also features tap dancing, story telling and "commercial breaks."

Members of the audience are invited to bring lawn chairs and blankets for seating, as well as a picnic if they wish. The performance ends at around 8, because of lighting conditions. In the event of rain, the program will be held inside the Community Center, also located in the park complex.

"Ain't Misbehavin'" For AIDS Service Group

There will be a special performance of the musical revue Ain't Misbehovin' at Rider College in Lawrenceville on Sunday, August 21, at 8 p.m. to benefit the Hyacinth Foundation AIDS Project.

The lively musical is being presented by Stage One Productions as part of its 1988 summer season. The special performance has been made possible through the generosity of Artistic Director Nick Procaccino, founder of Stage One. Tickets are priced at $12 and may be obtained by calling 683-0444.

The Fats Waller musical is under the direction of Sarah Erb with musical direction by Roger Holland and choreography by Carolyn Watson-Johnson.

The Hyacinth Foundation AIDS Project is a not-for-profit tax-exempt organization providing direct support services to people with AIDS and others affected by the illness, such as the HIV positive, the "worried well," and the families, friends and loved ones of all these. Hyacinth offerings include a network of weekly support groups, a buddy program providing volunteer companions to people with AIDS, and legal and advocacy services.

Hyacinth services are available in New Jersey and in Bucks County, Pa. Those interested in learning more about Hyacinth can call the Hyacinth hotline: 1-800-433-0254.

Founded in 1985, Stage One Productions is a non-profit, semi-professional theatre company serving central New Jersey. It seeks to present classic, contemporary and new works from 20th century American theatre, to maintain affordable ticket prices and to keep alive the tradition of nonprofit, area theatrical companies.

Performers Are Listed For Noontime Concerts

Brown Bag Concerts have returned to the front lawn of the New Jersey State Museum on Wednesdays at noon during August.

Funded in part by the Friends Corporate Membership Fund and the Musician's Union Trust Fund, the schedule includes Jim McKnight and the Monday Blues on August 3; Joe St. Michael's Rock Band on August 10; Russell Hoffman and the String Quartet on August 17; Frank Herrara with MSC Jazz on August 24; and rounding out the series, Rick Fiori with String Jazz on August 31.

In the event of rain, the concerts move to the adjacent auditorium. The audience is invited to bring a lunch, lawn chair and enjoy.

Musical 'Guys and Dolls' By Franklin Villagers

The musical Guys and Dolls will be performed by the Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre at the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick, starting this weekend and continuing through August 21.

Guys and Dolls, a lighthearted look at New York City's underworld of the 1940's, is based on the stories and characters created by Damon Runyon. It features the music and lyrics of Frank Loesser and a book by Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows.

Mr. Loesser's score includes some of Broadway's most memorable songs, such as "Luck Be a Lady," "Sit Down You're Rockin' the Boat," "Sue Me," "I've Never Been in Love Before" and of course, "Guys and Dolls." The musical was made into a movie starring Marlon Brando and Frank Sinatra.

The story revolves around Nathan Detroit, portrayed by Steve Miller, who runs a floating crap game, much to the dismay of his fiancee of 14 years, Adelaide (Marge Devaney), who has been working hard as a dancer at the Hot Box club to save up enough money for her marriage. The trouble starts when Lt. Brannigan (Bill Smith) puts the heat on the crap game, making it difficult for Nathan to find a place to hold it.

His last resort, the Biltmore Garage, wants $1,000 cash up front. Nathan thinks his situation is hopeless until he hears that Sky Masterson, the highest of high rollers, portrayed by Tom Eldridge, is in town. Nathan comes up with a surefire scheme to win the $1,000 from Sky — he bets him that he cannot convince the prim Salvation Army Sergeant Sarah Brown, played by Amy

ART

Artists Currently Sought For Fair in Hopewell

Hopewell Harvest Fair is seeking area artists who would like to participate in the "Artist's Alley" at this year's fair.

The exhibition is open to all artists in all media, including oil, watercolor, pastel, pen-and-ink, pottery and stoneware.

The fair will take place on Saturday, September 17, in the field next to Princeton Bank, East Broad Street.

Entry forms are available at Princeton Bank's Hopewell Branch, or may be obtained by writing to Hopewell Harvest Fair-1988, P.O. Box 421, Hopewell, NJ 08525.

Exhibits

An exhibit, "Labor Through the Eyes of New Jersey Artists," will be on display through September 2 in the Library Gallery on the West Windsor campus of Mercer County Community College.

The works of 16 artists were chosen for the show, including those of area artists Jonathan Gaffin, Paula Arcioni, Lew Williams and Charles McVicker.

The display includes Ben Shahn prints and a series of Lewis Wickes Hine photographs on loan from the New Jersey State Museum. Hine's revealing photographs of the exploitation of children led to the passing of child labor laws. A Rex Gorleigh painting from the collection of Mercer County Community College will also be included.

An exhibit of paintings by Stan Kephart will be on display at the Artful Deposit Gallery in Allentown from August 2 to August 31. A reception will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, August 6.

Mr. Kephart, a resident of Pennington, has had a number of exhibitions in the area. His work is also in the collections of Princeton University, United Jersey Bank, and Gillespie Advertising, among others.

Prizzis, a Mafia family headed by William Hickey.

The characters also include the Don's granddaughter, played by Huston's own daughter, Angelica, and Kathleen Turner as a free-lance hit woman with whom Nicholson falls in love. Following her to Los Angeles, he has to ask himself, "Should I ice her or marry her?"

Mona Lisa won both the Cannes Best Actor Award and an Oscar monination for the British Actor Bob Hoskins, who plays George, a smalltime London hood. Directed by Neil Jordon, the movie is described as a perverse fairy tale, a variation on the beauty and the beast theme. George becomes the driver, unlikely knight errant and patsy for an edgy black prostitute (Cathy Tyson).

Pugnacious, boorish and naively romantic, he falls for his gangly dark princess, and at her request undertakes a search for a drugged-out, 15-year-old hooker lost somewhere in the porno underworld, a quest which takes him on a devious trail leading to blackmail, terror, disillusion and a shattering climax. Both films are rated R.

Two films which share the common elements of reunions, romance and conversation are on the Summer Cinema program for Tuesday through Thursday, August 2 to 4. They are The Decline of the American Empire and The Big Chill, which takes the place of the previously scheduled Return of the Secaucus Seven. The times are 7:30 and 9:15, respectively.

The Decline of the American Empire is about a group of eight Canadian male and female academics who gather at a lakefront cottage in Quebec for the weekend. The narrative structure is divided into three interspersed parts. The first involves the men in a country kitchen.

In the second, the women are in a high-tech health club, and the third reunites them all for a settling of accounts as all discuss their sexual exploits with amusing candor.

The Big Chill is about seven friends who went through college together and are veterans of the activist 1960's. They convene to mourn the suicide of a friend as well as their own faded consciousness. In the course of a long weekend at a rural home of one of their friends outside Beaufort, S.C., the seven recall lost illusions and fond memories, moving from depression to high spirits, to boozy, druggy confessions, accusations and revelations of long-hidden disappointments.

The ensemble players include Tom Berenger, Glenn Close, Jeff Goldblum, William Hurt, Kevin Kline, Mary Kay Place, Meg Tilly and JoBeth Williams.

For further information call the McCarter Theatre box office at 683-8000.

"Light Up the Sky" At Mill Hill Playhouse

The summer theatre at Trenton State College will present Moss Hart's comedy Light Up the Sky during the first two weekends in August at the Mill Hill Playhouse in Trenton. The production will run from Thursday to Sunday, August 4 to 7, and August 11 to 14.

All shows except Sunday will begin at 8 p.m. There will be a 3 p.m. matinee on both Sundays.

The play is a comedy about the theatre business and is set in Boston. When it opened on Broadway in 1948, Light Up the Sky joined Death of a Solesman and the Madwoman of Chaillot on the list of ten best plays that year. Trenton State College faculty member Hal Hogstrom is directing the production.

The production is co-sponsored by the Trenton Arts Commission for the Eyes on Trenton Celebration. Tickets are $8 for general admission and $5 for students and senior citizens. For further information, call the Mill Hill Playhouse at 989-3038.

Auditions to Be Held

Auditions for A Notional Treasure, a new play by Nathaniel Hartshorne and Charles Leeder, and Fool for Love by Sam Shepherd will be held on Monday and Tuesday from 7:30 to 11 p.m. at the Mackay Student Center of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Performances of both plays will be held on the last two weekends of September at the Mill Hill Playhouse in Trenton.

For further informetion, call 393-3455 or 466-1009.

Levine, to go to Havana with him.

The cast also includes Jeff Babey as Nicely Nicely Johnson, Nancy Cartwright as General Cartwright, Jeff Dworkin as Harry the Horse, Tom Freuler as Big Jule, James Meadows as Benny Southstreet and John Pochin as Arvide Abernathy. The men portraying gangsters include Joe Ballek, Larry Lazare, Sean Morgan and Charles Wagner.

The Hot Box Girls are played by Stacie Dicksheid, Peggy Glover, Allison Gratacos, Lori Kaplan, Barbara Klausner, Peggy Muldowney, Jackie O'Connor and Atlanta Rogalli. Guys and Dolls is directed by Tony Adase with musical direction by Beverly Gorelick and choreography by Linda S. Christiansen. It has sets designed by Bill Jamieson, costumes by Camille Cusimano and lighting designed by Alan Levine.

Performances are Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 and Sundays at 7:30, except Sundays, August 7 and 21, which are 2 p.m. matinees. Tickets are $10 Fridays, $11 Saturdays and $8.50 Sundays. Students and seniors receive a $2 discount on Fridays and Sundays.

Further information or reservations can be obtained by calling the Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre at (201) 873-2710. George Street Playhouse will not be handling ticket reservations.

Eileen B. Saums, Allied Member A.S.I.D., speaks on Bedroom Beauty Depends On More Than Just The Bed.

In the old days, most bedroom decoreting consisted of choosing the right bed plus adding such standard equipment as a low chest or dresser and a high chest — and that was about it.

But today, people want more beauty and more convenience in their bedrooms, and more and more people are using different pieces of furniture to make their bedroom well-decoreted so that it will stand on its own as a beautiful place.

What can be added to a bedroom to achieve this new beauty and convenience? Here are a few ideas. How about a pair of straight chairs with a table between them; a desk; bookcases; an armoire; a beautiful dressing table; a chaise longue; a love seat; or an attractive bench.

And, of course, the new bedroom can be coordinated with carpet, drapery, wall design, bedspreads and other accessories.

But what about the old problem of storage? Most homes without dressing rooms or big closets still need bedroom chests — but you don't have to settle for the old standard equipment. You can see a variety of beautiful, high, low, single, double and triple dressers, chests and storage pieces that will not only hold clothing but improve a room decoratively.

For all kinds of furnishings and ideas to add new beauty to your bedroom, stop in and browse around.

the Borough line continuing as Mt. Lucas Road to the Montgomery border, although the project took three separate construction seasons to complete because of budget constraints.

Terhune Road was also resurfaced in stages. Mr. Kiser took advantage of Elizabethtown Water Company's laying a new 30-inch water pipe along part of Terhune and Mountain Avenue to negotiate for most of the road resurfacing to be paid for by the Water Company, an example of his knack for finding other money to stretch the municipal budget.

He was successful in obtaining $150,000 from the State to help pay for the redesign and widening of the Harrison Street-Valley Road intersection, the scene of many accidents and considered one of the most dangerous intersections in the Township. Mr. Kiser played a major role in the creation of Turning Basin Park, getting the contractor dredging the D&R Canal to dredge the turning basin as well for $1, thus saving the Township $60,000. He parlayed Greenacres funds and private contributions into an overall scheme of improvements, which were designed in-house.

Those on the west side of the park have been completed, and a contract is expected to be let shortly for improvements to the east side which will allow a canoe concession to operate at the turning basin.

Unique Recycling Shed. The Recycling Shed in the Princeton Shopping Center is one of the most successful ventures of Mr. Kiser's tenure. There was a recyling shed when he came, operated by an outside individual who kept the proceeds from the sale of recycled newspapers and glass in exchange for keeping the place neat. However, maintenance was less than assiduous, and fires set on weekends when the shed was closed required rebuilding of the shed on two occasions.

When the outside operator became unable to carry on, it was decided that the Township would take over. Mr. Kiser discovered there were incentive grants available from the State, based on tonnage of recycled items. But hiring Bob Clynes, formerly with the Princeton Windsor News Service, as the full-time attendant proved to be the key to the recycling shed's success.

As Mr. Kiser points out, a cleaner, tidier shed, with an attendant on hand seven days a week to help lift items from residents' cars has increased usage many times over. Mr. Clynes' salary is paid for out of the proceeds of the Township's sale of the recyclable items. The State incentive grant increases each year as the tonnage goes up and as new items are included, and the shed generates about $19,000 a year for the Township.

To Mr. Kiser's knowledge there is no other recycling program in New Jersey with a full-time attendant.

Many Meetings. Because he wears so many different hats, Mr. Kiser attends many meetings — throughout the day and many nights as well. He is present at Township Committee meetings three nights a month to report on the status of the various projects under his jurisdiction, to make recommendations on whether or not a developer's performance or maintenance bond should be released and to present the results of contract bidding.

A highly organized individual, he tends to answer a question from the mayor in outline form, enumerating the pertinent points as he sees them. When he is asked to "look into and report back" on a particular situation — such as residents' requests for additional street lighting or complaints about a sudden dramatic increase in garbage pick-up costs — he does so in a detailed written report, often with a map to illustrate the situation.

Mr. Kiser's professional expertise is called upon at meetings of the Sewer Operating Committee, which has struggled for the past several years to find ways and means of repairing Princeton's leaky sewer system. But his activities in conjunction with development applications before the Planning Board take up increasingly more of his time.

Each application is reviewed in its planning aspects by Duggan Kimball, the professional planner, by Mr. Kneski as the zoning officer, and by Mr. Kiser for the engineering of proposed storm water detention, road design, sewer hook-up, utilities and landscaping. The three men work closely together and are referred to as the "Three K's" by Hans Sander of the Planning Board.

A Field View. These reviews can "take a lot of time," in Mr. Kiser's words, and if there are wetlands involved, or trees that should be snowfenced in order to be saved, he and the other K's will don boots and make a field inspection. Finally, there is a report to be written as a guide to the Planning Board, which relies heavily on the expertise of the staff in making its decisions.

Mr. Kiser's role also includes negotiating with developers for contributions to the off-tract improvements to roadways or the sewer collection system that will be required because of a particular development. A genial, seemingly easy-going man with a ready smile, he is also known as a tough negotiator, one whose loyalty is clearly with the municipality. And although he says he doesn't always agree with the stance of certain developers, he enjoys the challenge of "making something out of the different pieces of the puzzle," as he puts it.

Mr. Kiser's role continues even after an application receives final approval. From the pre-construction meeting, during which the developer comes in "and we lay out the ground rules" to the time when Committee is asked for release of the performance guarantee and the one-year maintenance guarantee, there is about a five-year tracking period to make certain that the roadways, detention basin and utilities are built as they were designed and approved.

Mr. Kiser says part of the impetus for reorganizing the Engineering Department is to get ready for development that is either already approved or pending in the Township. Counting the Ettl Farm development (117 units proposed), Griggs Farm (280 units approved), the White Farm (300 units), the 65 townhouses off Terhune Road, and the Pretty Brook, DeMenil and Cadle tracts, all of which have subdivision applications, the Township will have 1,000 new dwelling units and an increase in population of 18 to 20 percent. This is the largest jump since World War II, he says.

General Practitioner. In place of the "many hats" analogy, Mr. Kiser says he thinks of a municipal engineer as the general practitioner of engineering. "You need to know a lot of things in a wide range, but you also need to know when you should rely on a specialist," he says. Township specialists include Killam Associates on flood control and storm water drainage; Garmen Associates on traffic; Weidlinger Associates on rehabilitating the Route 27-Harry's Brook bridge; and a firm called B2A Associates for deed research.

"You need to be a very good manager, with the consultants as well as with your own people," Mr. Kiser continues. According to James J. Pascale, Mr. Kiser is "an excellent manager" who has great respect from his staff. "He is one of our best," Mr. Pascale says, "very loyal to the Township and the governing body, and very change-oriented. That's a key factor. You need someone who can implement change when it is needed."

When he was City Engineer and Director of Public Services for Easton, Pa., Mr. Kiser was head of a department of 150 people, and his responsibilities were much broader. The water system and a water treatment plant were under his aegis, as well as a sewage treatment plant and a parking garage. It was there that he picked up experience and expertise in water and sewer management which he has been able to put to use here, as well as his skill in obtaining State grants.

While in Easton, Mr. Kiser was named Young Engineer of the Year by the Lehigh Valley Section of the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers and was very active in the Jaycees and the Boys Club of Easton. The Jaycees named him one of the Outstanding Young Men of America twice, and gave him a Distinguished Service Award in 1982.

However, having been raised on a farm in Bridgewater, Mr. Kiser knew he would want to return to New Jersey at some point. The death of his father, and the possibility his mother would have to sell the 15-acre farm on which he grew up, coincided with the vacancy in the Princeton Township Engineer's position. Mr. Kiser built a house on the property for his mother and lives in the main house with his wife and three young sons.

The farm is planted in some 600 fruit trees, and he finds going out on the tractor or spraying the apple trees a good release from the "intensity," as he puts it, of Township business. Increasingly, municipal engineers are being lured from the public sector into private engineering firms, where the pay is higher. Mr. Kiser says at some point he might be so tempted, but at the moment, "I enjoy what I am doing now."

The scarcity of qualified engineers and the vacancies lead some engineers to jump from one municipality to another. Mr. Kiser says that for him satisfaction lies in beginning a program and seeing it through. He is particularly grateful for the resources in Princeton — such as Rick Henkel of Princeton Nurseries and Peggy McNeil of the Soil Conservation Service — who offer expertise to the municipality on a volunteer basis.

"I feel fortunate to have the opportunity to work in Princeton," Mr. Kiser says.

Princeton Post 76 Meets Hopewell in Legion Playoff

SCHWARTZ TO PAPCIAK FOR OUT AT THE PLATE: Princeton Post 76 catcher Greg Papciak holds glove with ball aloft to show umpire, after tagging Hopewell runner Carl Zentmayer out at the plate in second inning in Saturday's playoff game with Post 339. Zentmayer, who injured his left shoulder on the play but was able to continue, had attempted to score from second on a single, but was cut down on a perfect peg from Post 76 left fielder Greg Schwartz. (Randall Hagadorn photo)

For the second time in a week, the fortunes of the Princeton Post 76 American Legion team have come down to a single game.

When Post 76 combined the six-hit pitching of Scott Lord and a grand slam by Tim Rumer to defeat Hopewell 8-1 Monday afternoon, the win evened its best-of-three playoff series with Post 339. The two teams were scheduled to play the deciding game this week. The winner will advance to the State tournament to join Hamilton Post 31 and Bordentown Post 26. Bordentown joined the elite State tournament group when it defeated Ewing, two games to none, in its playoff series.

Lord fashioned a magnificent pressure performance on the mound for Princeton against Hopewell. He limited Post 339 to six singles and a single run in the eighth inning on an assortment of off-speed pitches and curve balls. "He was throwing junk and we didn't adjust," agreed Hopewell manager Gary Vogler.

"He gave me more than I expected," said Princeton manager Larry Bender. "He's been doing it all year." The win was the seventh for Lord, who owns four of Princeton's last seven victories.

While Lord was retiring 14 of the first 16 batters he faced, Princeton reached Hopewell pitcher Matt Elliott for three runs in the second, combining a walk, John Clarkson's single, a single by Jim Brienza, Andy Petrone's bunt, a double by Ryan Douglas and a two-run double by Craig Schwartz.

In the fourth, Post 76 plated five more runs — all with two outs — for a commanding 8-0 lead. After Dan Sexton had singled in one run and Peter Prodanov loaded the bases again with a textbook bunt, up stepped Tim Rumer, named the league's Player of the Year (see box, page 39) over the weekend.

Rumer belted a long drive to right which Hopewell fielder Ken Marcellus managed to get his glove on but could not hold. The ball carried over the fence for a grand slam, Rumer's eighth homer of the season.

SPORTS

Schwartz, who had driven in only six runs before the game, erupted for three hits and Prodanov had two to pace Princeton's 10-hit attack. The game had been delayed a day after officials ruled rain had left Moody Field unplayable for Sunday's scheduled game.

"I think," predicted Bender, after Princeton had dodged a bullet, "if we make it into the State tournament, we'll do well."

Hopewell Wins, 13-10. The first game pitted Rumer against Hopewell's best, Brian Boucher on the mound. Pitching was not to be a factor in this game, however, as Hopewell scored seven runs in the seventh to win, 13-10. At the time, Post 76 was leading, 5-4.

Post 76 made things interesting when it scored four runs in the ninth inning, as a tiring Boucher walked in three runs and Sexton singled in another. With the bases loaded, Rumer, who had homered earlier in the game for his seventh round-tripper, drove a ball to deep center for what would have been a dramatic, game-winning slam, but the ball was caught.

Said Bender, "We dug a hole for ourselves and just couldn't get out of it, but you have to be happy about the way we came back."

Earns Playoff Berth. Earlier in the week, Post 76 had advanced to the playoffs the old-fashioned way: it earned it.

While other teams that seemed to have a lock on a playoff berth stumbled (Hopewell lost four of its last five, Ewing lost three straight) Princeton finished with a surge. It won its last five in a row, seven of its last eight, 10 of its last 12. No wonder Bender could say, "We're in the right frame going into the tournament."

One of the greatest fielding records in recent years in big league baseball is a little-known, but amazing, record set by Steve Garvey of San Diego in 1984 ... Garvey was a regular that entire season, playing 159 games at first base — and he NEVER made an error all year!

Ever wonder why the person in charge of a team on a baseball field is called a "manager" — while in every other sport the person in charge on the field is called a "coach"? ... It goes back to the beginnings of baseball when the person in charge took care of off-field duties as well, such as booking games, arranging transportation and running the front office ... So he was called a "manager" ... In football and other sports, such jobs were usually split and the person who led the players on the field came to be called a "coach".

Street Park, 7-5, in a rain-shortened game the last day of the season, it clinched the final playoff spot. Princeton, Hopewell and Ewing all finished even at 17-10 but Princeton wound up third in the standings on the basis of head-to-head competition among the three teams. Post 76 was 4-2, Hopewell 3-3 and Ewing 2-4.

Needing a win in its last regular season game with Mitchell-Davis to clinch a spot in the playoffs, Post 76 didn't waste any time. Princeton scored in every inning to rout M-D, 15-4. Clarkson erupted for two homers and a double, Rumer added to his .500 plus batting average with three hits in five at bats, while Danny Sexton and Greg Schwartz contributed two hits each to Princeton's power display.

Post 76 pitcher Mark Lee, who came on to pitch the last two innings in relief of J.F. Glassmacher, set a Mercer County American Legion record when he appeared in his 20th game. Lee ended up getting the win, which, ironically, was his first.

Mitchell Davis wound up sharing the league cellar with Trenton Post 93. Each team finished with a lacklustre 3-24 mark.

The previous day, Post 76 was more tentative in ekeing out a 3-2 victory over Mitchell-Davis. Held to six hits, including two each by Andy Petrone and Sexton, Princeton scored single runs in each of the first three innings.

Post 76 hurler Scott Lord, who garnered three wins in Princeton's last five games, made the three runs stand up by limiting Post 182 to a pair of runs in the fourth. Lord fanned four, walked two and yielded five hits in the six innings he pitched to gain his sixth win against two losses — tops among all Post 76 hurlers. Lee worked the last inning.

In finishing 17-10, Princeton matched its record of last season. But, in contrast to last summer when it broke out fast, Post 76 won only two of its first seven games this season. As late as June 28, a little past the halfway mark in the season, Post 76 was still floundering below .500 with a 7-8 mark before starting on its 10-2 run.

Bender's club ended up with 3-0 sweeps against Ewing, Hightstown, Trenton and Mitchell-Davis. It was 2-1 against Lawrence and 1-2 opposite Hopewell, Broad Street Park and Bordentown. Like most of the teams in the league this year, Post 76 was blanked 0-3 by Hamilton, which for the second year won all but two of its games. For the past two seasons, Hamilton has gone an incredible 50-4.

Final Game Thursday For Ficarro's Squad?

Weather permitting — and the weather has been hard to predict lately — Steve Ficarro's Auto Body will play its final regular season game this week in the National League division of the Mercer Women's Softball League.

The Princeton-based Ficarro's team will meet Jan Creighton's Auto & Towing on Thursday at 7:30 at Mercer Park's Field 3. The game is a makeup of a rained-out game that was rained out a second time on

Post 76's Tim Rumer Is Named Player of the Year

Princeton Post 76's Tim Rumer has been named Player of the Year in the Mercer County American Legion League. His teammate, second baseman Dan Sexton, won the Golden Glove award as the best fielding player for the second straight year.

A four-year veteran of the league and a sophomore at Duke University, Rumer led the league in batting with a blistering .530 average. He also tied for the league lead in homers, with six, and was third in runs batted in, with 28. Among his 44 hits were six doubles.

As a pitcher, Rumer was 5-4, with a 3.06 ERA. In his single most incandescent performance of the season, Rumer, who two years earlier was named the league's Pitcher of the Year, tossed a no-hitter against Hightstown and hit for the cycle. The former Princeton High player outpolled Hamilton's Dave Chmielewski, Mark Michel of Ewing, and Dan Dengler of Bordentown. Rumer's strongest competition for the award was Chmielewski, who established a new league record by hitting safely in all 27 games. Along with the streak, Chmielewski batted .436 and scored 36 runs, the latter tops in the league.

Hamilton's Dan Vizzini was named the league's Most Valuable Player. A pitcher/player like Rumer, Vizzini earned remarkable credentials: a .484 batting average (second behind Rumer), a league-leading 42 RBIs, 14 doubles and four triples. As a pitcher, Vizzini was 7-0, including two no-hitters, and had an ERA of 1.00.

Todd Ruyak, who combined with Vizzini to lead Hamilton to its second 25-2 record in two years, was named the league's Pitcher of the Year. Ruyak was a perfect 8-0 and had a sparkling ERA of 0.92. The southpaw fanned 87 batters in 59 innings.

The awards will be presented at the league's annual awards ceremony this Wednesday, July 27, at 6 at Hightstown Post 148.

Thursday. Earlier in the week, Ficarro's was scheduled to oppose Champale.

In its only contest last week, Ficarro's defeated Vermeer North Atlantic, 7-2. Janet Comerford, Beth Ault, Grace Durland and Dee Discavage all had two hits in four at-bats for the victors. Doreen Ragazzo, filling in for the injured Clare Baxter, was the winning pitcher.

The win left Ficarro's in third place with a 17-6 record. But, as Ficarro manager Bob Smyth points out, Three Seasons, the 18-5 league leaders, had tightened things up by losing its last two starts. Smyth labels second-place Grove Plumbing (17-5) as the hot team as the season winds down.

All kinds of endings are possible — even Ficarro's ending up in first place if both Three Seasons and Grove lose all their remaining games, a development Smyth considers highly unlikely.

If there is a tie for first or second place, a single game playoff will be held Tuesday at 6:30 at Mercer Park. It is possible, said Smyth, that the league would then move right into the playoffs between the top four finishers.

In the playoff format, the number one team meets four and two meets three in a single game, the winners clashing in a best of three series for the league championship.

Smyth foresees Grove and Three Seasons battling each other for the regular season title, with Ficarro's meeting one of the two in the playoffs. Ficarro's has won the league championship the previous two years.

The current standings:

	W	L	Pct
Three Seasons	18	5	.783
Grove Plumb.	17	5	.773
Ficarro's	17	6	.739
Dot's Girl's	14	9	.609
Eagle Electric	12	11	.522
Miller Lite	10	12	.455
Vermeer	8	15	.348

Senior Games Sept. 10-11 Now Olympic Qualifiers

The 1988 Senior Games of New Jersey, scheduled for September 10 and 11, has been designated a sanctioned qualifying event for the 1989 United States National Senior Olympics.

The Games, which will be held on the campus of Kean College in Union and surrounding facilities, will offer competition in 17 sports, ranging from archery to tennis, to New Jersey residents 55 and over.

"This designation as a national qualifying site, after only two years in existence, is yet another step in our growth," said executive director Ray Funkhouser. He added that the 700 participants last year represented a 300 percent increase over the number who competed in the inaugural event in 1986, which was then known as the New Jersey Senior Olympics.

The format of the 1988 Games will resemble an Olympic-style sports festival, with participants competing in one or more events over the two-day period. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded in each event.

The entry fee for the Senior Games is $3 ($1.50 for PAAD cardholders), with additional fees for those competing in golf and bowling. All entrants will receive a commemorative t-shirt and certificate of participation.

The 1988 program will offer the following sports: archery, basketball shooting, bowling, checkers, golf, horseshoes, spin casting, table tennis, track and field, bocce ball, darts, cycling softball throw, swimming, table tennis, a five-kilometer road race, and a noncompetitive one mile healthwalk.

The registration deadline for some events is August 22, with others closing August 29.

New Home for Biathlon At Forrestal Village

The Great Swamp Biathlon, formerly held in Morris Township, will be held September 18 this year at Princeton Forrestal Village. The event has been renamed the Biathlon at Princeton Forrestal Village.

Sanctioned by the United States Biathlon Federation, the race will serve as the eastern regional championship and a qualifier for the national biathlon championship to be held in New York in November.

The biathlon is sponsored by Princeton Forrestal Village, Continental Airlines, Fennelly Associates and the Princeton Marriott.

The event features a three-mile run, followed by a 20-mile bicycle race and finishes with a three-mile run. The course is described as flat and fast on a closed-to-traffic course.

Known for the quality of its competition, the race has attracted the world's top-ranked biathlete, Ken Souza of Boulder, Colo. Last year, Souza won the race with a time of 1:12:34.

More than 500 participants are expected to compete for a minimum of a $5,000 cash purse.

For applications or additional information call 201-968-8256 or write to the Morris-Essex Triathlon Club, P.O. Box 1596, Morristown, N.J., 07960.

Tennis Conference Set For Teachers in NYC

Staff Members of the United States Tennis Association's Princeton office — Ron Woods, Sean Sloane, Lew Brewer, Paul Roetert, Nick Saviano and Benny Sims — will all be speakers at the 1988 United States Tennis Association Tennis Teachers Conference, to be held at the Sheraton Centre in New York City from August 31 to September 2. Kathy Woods of Princeton will also present a seminar at the event.

The New Jersey residents are among 53 members of this year's faculty who will share the latest tennis news with more than one thousand teaching professionals, team tennis coaches, physical education teachers, tennis program directors and recreational tennis leaders who annually attend the event.

This year's conference is co-directed by Eve Kraft, founder and director of the USTA Center for Education and Recreational Tennis, and Sean Sloane, director of USTA Recreational Tennis.

Ms. Woods is the president of the middle states division of the USPTA. She also serves as vice-president of the middle states section of the USTA. director of the middle states Tennis Teachers Workshop, and is a member of the Philadelphia Tennis Industry Council. Currently a teaching professional at Hopewell Valley Tennis Center, she will speak on "Workouts for Physical and Mental Toughness."

HELP PREVENT CRIME: TIPS FROM POLICE

BURGLARY PREVENTION TIPS

With vacation time in full swing, the Borough Police Department has pulled together this list of tips to help make certain you return to an unburgled home.

• Notify newspaper and mail carriers to discontinue delivery while you're away, or have newspapers and mail regularly picked up by a friend or neighbor.

• Make your house look "lived in" while you are away. Put lights and a radio on timers.

• Utilize the police department's vacant house form when you vacation. Departure and return dates should be completed, in addition to name and phone number of someone to notify in case of emergency.

• Make arrangements to have grass cut. Have someone check your house daily and remove throwaway circulars and papers from the driveway and door.

• Arrange with a neighbor or friend to watch your house. Provide a key and your itinerary in case of emergency. Record their phone number so you can check with them while you're away.

• Secure all valuables in a safe deposit box.

• Unplug electrical appliances not in use.

• Turn the telephone ring down so it cannot be heard from outside.

• Never leave door keys under flower pots, door mats, in mail boxes or other "secret" hiding places — burglars know them all.

• Do not leave a note on your door which may indicate your absence.

• Ask neighbors not to tell strangers, such as sales people or repairmen, of your absence.

• Remove ladders, tools and lawn implements from the yard and secure them in the garage or basement.

• If you are leaving a car in the driveway, make sure it is locked and hide the key, or give the key to a neighbor. If no car is left at home, ask a neighbor to park in your driveway occasionally.

• Make sure the last person out locks the doors and windows. Take a walk around the house. Check the doors and windows.

BE STREET WISE!

The Department has also issued this list of assault prevention recommendations.

While on the street:

• Be alert, know your surroundings and walk confidently. Know who's in front of you and behind you.

• Walk on highly traveled, well-lighted streets at night.

• Do not dangle your pocketbook; carry it close to your body.

• When walking down a dark street, carry your pocketbook upside down with fingers pinching the latch closed. If a purse snatcher strikes, the pocketbook will open and items will fall to the ground. The purse snatcher will not take the time to sort through the valuables.

• Do not carry house keys inside of your pocketbook.

• Do not leave pocketbooks unattended in the library or in a supermarket shopping cart.

• Always have your perimeter lighting on at your home, and keep your house key in hand for immediate use.

• If driven home by a friend or taxi, ask them to wait until you are inside before they leave.

• Be extra alert around stores and banks, as they are a favorite hangout for muggers.

• If bothered or confronted on the street, seek refuge in a private residence or store, and notify police immediately.

• Inquire at the Borough Police Station or Princeton Horizon Bank about "Operation Whistle Stop."

New Seafood Restaurant At Forrestal Marriott

The Princeton Marriott in Forrestal Village has opened a new seafood restaurant, Village Green Sea Grill, which offers fresh seafood in a casual atmosphere and at moderate prices. Customer response to Marriott's new Sea Grill restaurants across the country has been very favorable, with 87 percent of guests queried rating their meals good or excellent.

So far, 14 Marriott hotels (of a total of 179) have Sea Grills, and 13 others will be in place by the end of 1988. The idea stems from an 18-month market research study, according to Robin Uler, Director of Food and Beverage at the Marriott. "We were looking for a concept with universal appeal that would draw both local customers and hotel guests. We explored numerous possibilities, and seafood proved to have the greatest public appeal."

At the new restaurant, menus will highlight eight or nine varieties of fish, along with regional specialties, which customers can request to have prepared to personal specifications. Cheese sticks, fresh vegetables, breads, and rice and potato dishes accompany all entrees, as do salad and dessert bars.

Lunch entrees average $6.95 to $16.00; dinner entrees range from $6.95 to $18.95.

Two Major Law Firms Announce Their Merger

The law firms of Hannoch Weisman and Sterns, and Herbert, Weinroth and Petrino have merged. This marks the first merger of major law firms in the State of New Jersey. The merged firm, which will have 150 lawyers as of September and offices in Roseland, Trenton, Princeton and Washington, D.C., will retain the name Hannoch Weisman. Richard J. Hughes, former New Jersey governor and chief justice, will be counsel to the firm.

The new firm, one of the largest in the State, is the only major firm with a significant presence in Trenton. Sterns Herbert is the dominant law firm in the State in government-related matters. It was the first firm to represent casinos, helping Resorts International secure an operating license in 1978. The firm is also bond counsel to the New Jersey Economic Development Authority, and has an extensive practice in real estate, the environment, insurance, banking, health care, transportation and public utilities.

Personnel Notes

Richard Simkus, of Princeton, has joined Shearson Lehman Hutton in Lawrenceville as a second vice president and financial consultant. He is an honors graduate of Princeton University.

Bruce E. Nassberg has joined the Lawrenceville law firm of Szaferman, Lakind, Blumstein, Watter & Blader. He was formerly a partner in the Union firm of Nassberg & Cheser.

Thomas Anderson, exhibits manager for E.R. Squibb & Sons, Inc., has been re-eleted to the board of directors of the Health Care Exhibitors Association.

Robert S. Powell Jr., 92 Philip Drive, has been named president and chief operating officer of DKM Properties Corp., Lawrenceville. He succeeds Ronald Berman, who will assume the position of chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Mr. Powell, who has served as executive vice president of DKM since 1984, will have overall responsibility for the operations of the firm's various subsidiaries and staff groups.

Previously, he served as president of Sutton Construction Company of Livingston and as the first executive director of the New Jersey Economic Development Authority.

Robert S. Powell Jr.

James J. Rose, of Pennington, has been elected national treasurer of the United States Jaycees International organization. He has been active in the Jaycees for more than 15 years.

Mr. Rose is the partner in charge of the Princeton office of Amper, Politziner & Mattia, a certified public accounting firm. He is also the chairman of the finance committee for the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton area.

The board of directors of Cytogen Corporation has announced that Robert F. Johnston, chairman of the board, has assumed the additional responsibilities of chief executive officer and president, replacing Dr. Ronald J. Brenner, who resigned for personal reasons. Dr. Brenner will remain a director of the company.

Mr. Johnston has specialized in initiating and guiding a number of companies dedicated to the commercialization of biotechnology. He is president of Johnston Associates, Inc., a mergers, acquisitions and venture capital firm he founded in 1967, and he has served as Cytogen Corporation's chairman since he founded the company in 1980.

Marta C. Tacher, of Lawrenceville, has been promoted to research executive in the Market Research Division of Opinion Research Corporation. Also, Debra A. English was promoted to senior research associate.

The Leigh Photographic Group of Princeton has added Paul B. Papier to its professional, in-house staff of photographers. Mr. Papier has had more than six years of public relations, still-life, food, catalogue and corporate photography experience in Manhattan and Philadelphia.

Paul Papier

United Jersey Banks has named Robert E. Brownlee and Stephen R. Schragger corporate vice presidents.

Mr. Brownlee is vice president, director of administrative services. He joined the bank in 1972 as a warehouse supervisor.

Mr. Schragger was promoted to vice president, director of real estate operations. Prior to joining the bank, he was a real estate broker specializing in commercial real estate in central New Jersey.

Robbin Armstrong has been appointed art director for Gillespie Advertising, Inc. A member of the Philadelphia Art Directors Club, he recently received the Silver Pencil Award from the One-Show Competition in New York.

Junaid Hashim, M.D., of North Brunswick, has joined the staff of the Carrier Foundation adolescent unit as a psychiatrist. A graduate of King Edward Medical College, Lahore, Pakistan, he completed his psychiatric residency training at Claybury Hospital, Essex, England and a fellowship in child and adolescent psychiatry at St. Vincent's Medical Center in New York.

Yitzhak Shnaps, M.D., has joined the Addiction Recovery Unit team at Carrier as staff psychiatrist. A graduate of Hebrew University Medical School in Jerusalem, he completed his residency in psychiatry at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in the Bronx, where he was chief resident.

ROCKWELL GREEN

In Pennington Borough

ROCKWELL GREEN is a splendid enclave of just 21 new houses in the Williamsburg tradition. Each has unmatched custom-quality, hand-split cedar shake roof, beaded clapboard siding, Marvin windows, Bruce hardwood flooring, Sub-Zero refrigerator, Kitchen Aid dishwasher, Thermador range, central vacuum. The list goes on and on!

JUST SIX HOMES REMAIN

You can move into the charming house pictured here as fast as the paper work can be done. The other five can be customized (or even planned in every detail) to your exact measure and delivered in five months.

Please call Diane Kilpatrick at 737-3980
for all the wonderful details or 737-7565 on site.
